WHS threatened

School delayed two hours Tuesday

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - Students got an unexpected delayed start Tuesday, and this time it had nothing to do with snow. A written threat was discovered Monday at the end of the school day in a boys' bathroom and the nature of the threat was specific enough that school officials decided to delay the start of the day and perform a controlled entry.

Parents received reverse 911 calls and email messages through the Alert Now system on Monday evening informing them of the threat and the delayed start. Those messages went out in seven languages, to accommodate English Language Learners in the school community.

"... [A] threat to high school security was found written in a student bathroom at the end of the school day. The building has been secured by

Olin ready for fieldwork

Actual clean-up still three to fours years away

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - The Olin Superfund site is about to enter a new phase of work as fieldwork is set to begin. Representatives from the Environmental Protection Agency, the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection and Wilmington-retained consultant GeoInsight appeared before Selectmen Monday in a preview of a public meeting scheduled for October 19 at Wilmington Middles School.

The Olin Superfund site is the newest site in the region, added in mid-2006. In July 2007 a settlement was reached with Olin and other potentially responsible parties to determine the nature and extent of the contamination at the site.

James DiLorenzo from the EPA told Selectmen that there has never been a comprehensive look at the collection of data, and "that's what Superfund does."

The investigation into the site began with reviewing tens of thousands of pages of data generated about the

Animal cruelty investigated

MSPCA handling the inquiry

By JAYNE W. MILLER

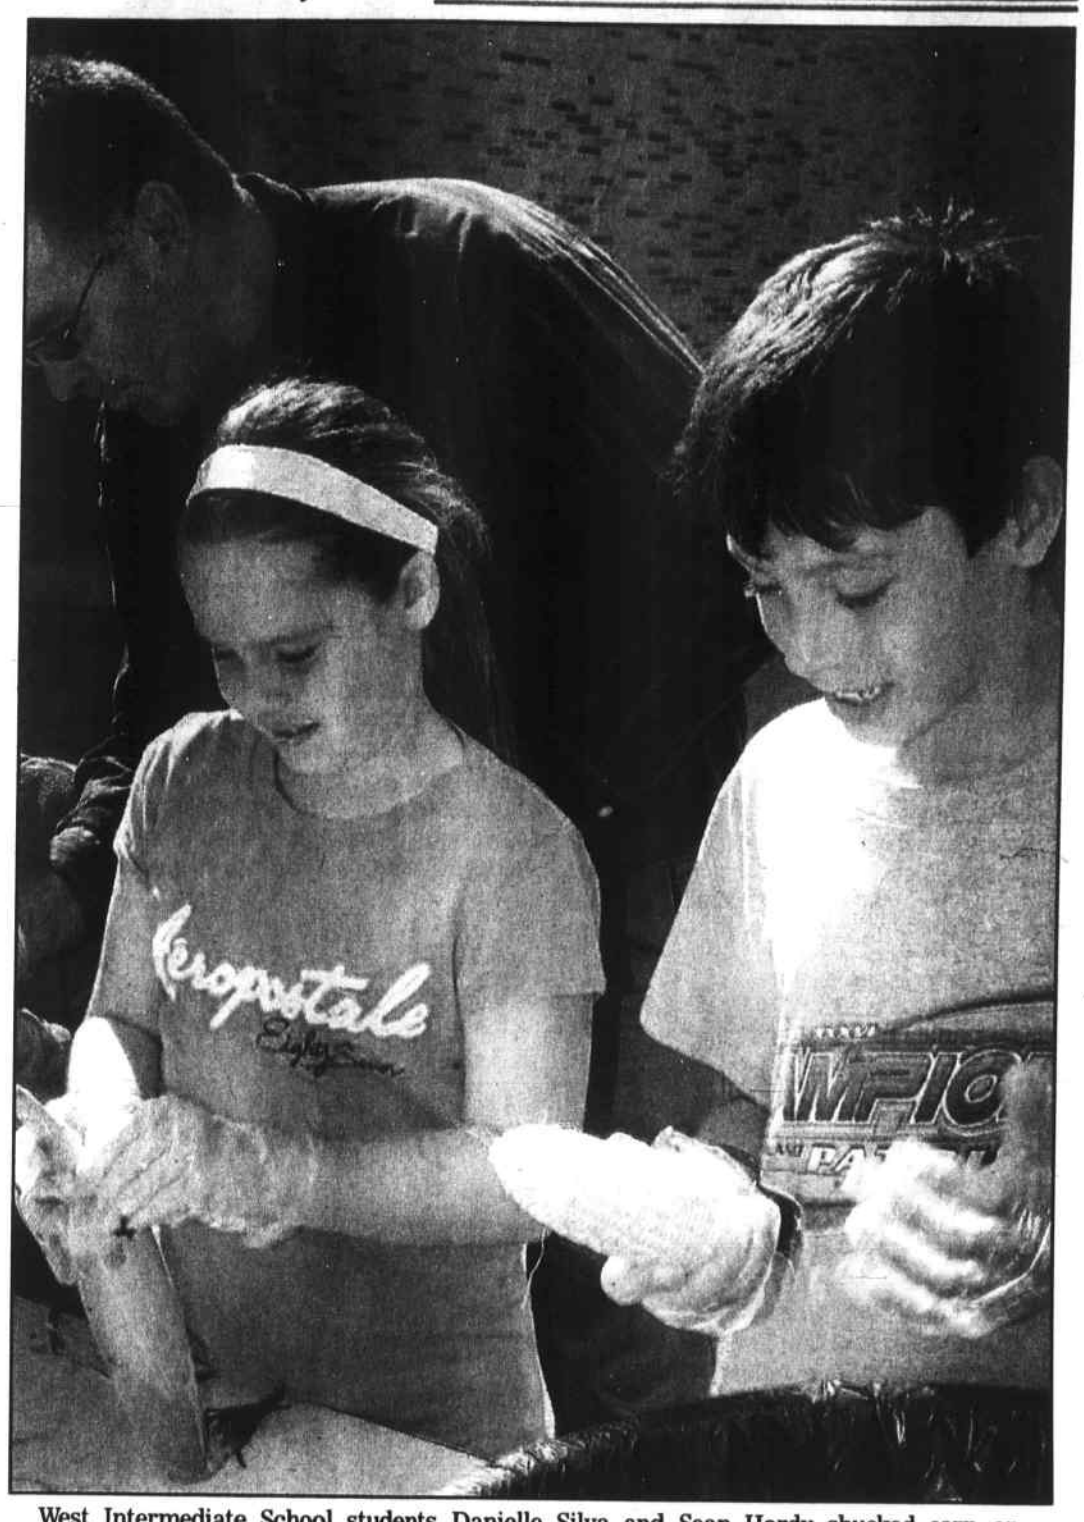

WILMINGTON - The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is investigating a property on Hopkins Street after Wilmington police received allegations on September 19 of animal cruelty.

Police logs indicate police received a call at 9:00 p.m. that Saturday night. The caller made an "animal complaint" for a location on Hopkins Street, stating that the animal(s) in question were malnourished and not properly groomed. It is not known what species of animal is involved, perhaps dogs or horses.

The matter was referred to the MSPCA's Law Enforcement Department at the request of environmental police.

Brian Adams, spokesman for the MSPCA, confirmed that the organization is currently investigating at case in

Insanity defense

...for accused murderer of local woman

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON/ANDOVER - The attorney for accused murderer Thomas Belanger, who allegedly stabbed a Wilmington therapist in 2008, told the Crier this week that he would seek an insanity defense for his client.

Attorney James Krasnoo told the Crier that the court granted funds for a court-appointed expert to review Belanger's file, a substantial collection of treatments and assessments spanning most of the 20-year-old's life. Belanger received some mental health services from his alleged victim at the time of the killing.

Diruhi Mattian, 53, was called to the then 19-year-old Belanger's home to coax him to relinquish a knife he reportedly held in his bedroom. According to North Andover police at the time, Belanger attacked Mattian, stabbing her in the torso, and then went to his sister's bedroom and slit his own throat in front of her.

Mattian made it to the foyer outside Belanger's basement apartment at Meadow View Condominiums at 3 Walker Road in North Andover and managed to dial 911. Responding officers found Mattian lying facedown in the foyer and Belanger lying on the floor in the apartment. Both were transported to Lawrence General Hospital

Level 3 sex offender arrested

Charged with sexual assault in Ipswich

By STEPHEN BJORK

TEWKSBURY - Ipswich Police arrested convicted sex offender Scott Gagnon, 51, of 436 Rogers Road in Tewksbury, Monday night for an alleged sexual assault. This is not the first time that Gagnon has garnered Town Crier headlines.

According to Ipswich Police, Gagnon was arrested on Monday, September 28, at approximately 6:00 p.m. on a charge of assault with intent to rape.

"This was the result of an investigation that took place after a woman reported to police that she was sexually assaulted while jogging along Plum Island Beach in the Town of Ipswich," said a statement released by Ipswich Police Lt. Daniel Moriarty.

Gagnon, a registered Level 3 sex offender in the State of Massachusetts, was held on $50,000 cash bail overnight at the Middleton House of Correction.

The investigation was led by Ipswich Police Detective Peter Dziadose and Sergeant Patty Fisher of the Newbury Police Department, in conjunction with Federal U.S. Fish & Wildlife Officers assigned to Plumb Island.

Gagnon was arraigned on Tuesday in Ipswich District Court and entered a plea of not guilty. Judge Allen Swan

Off the sidelines and into the fray

A tour in Iraq delayed, but did not end, O'Brien's soccer career

By DAN IGO

WILMINGTON - At 26, John O'Brien is certainly old enough to be a coach for the UMass Lowell soccer team.

Last month, that's exactly what he was.

But now the Wilmington resident is doing something he always wanted to do: Getting back onto the field.

After taking a six-year hiatus, O'Brien is playing defense for the River Hawks.

His story is one of a kind. O'Brien's college career began back in 2001 at Northeastern University. He sat out that year as a medical redshirt. He then transferred to UMass Lowell, where he sat out another year. He played full-time in 2003, and helped lead the team to a 15-5-2 record and a Northeast-10 Conference Tournament championship.

He then made a life altering decision. He left college and enrolled in the Army, specifically in the legendary 82nd Airborne.

"I joined the Army while I was still in college because I felt that what was going on in the Middle East was bigger than any individual commitments that I had made," O'Brien says. "I wanted to be deployed and I was fearful that if I waited too long I may miss my opportunity.

"I chose the Army because it offered me all the opportunities that I was looking for. I chose to be in an Airborne unit because the idea of jumping out of airplanes and helicopters was not only challenging, but very interesting as well."

O'Brien trained in Georgia and South Carolina until 2006, when he was deployed to Iraq. He knew he'd be right in the middle of the action.

"The claim of the 82nd Airborne is that we can send troops anywhere in the world within 18 hours of receiving our orders," he says. "Our ability to exit aircraft in large numbers allows us to get on the ground faster than most units."

In April 2007, O'Brien and his unit were attacked by two suicide bombers in As Sadah at a school they were using as barracks. Nine of O'Brien's fellow soldiers were killed in the attack. According to the Lowell Sun, it was one of the worst single-day attacks the 82nd Airborne experienced since the Vietnam War.

O'Brien survived that day, and stayed in Iraq until November 2007. He returned to American soil and was discharged in February of the following year. He knows he is one of the lucky ones.

"I'm thankful every day that I was able to come home," he says. "My unit lost 22 guys and not a day goes by that I don't think about them and their families."

It was time for O'Brien to move into civilian life. He knew he wanted to remain involved in soccer, so last January he accepted a coaching position at UMass Lowell as an assistant on the men's team.

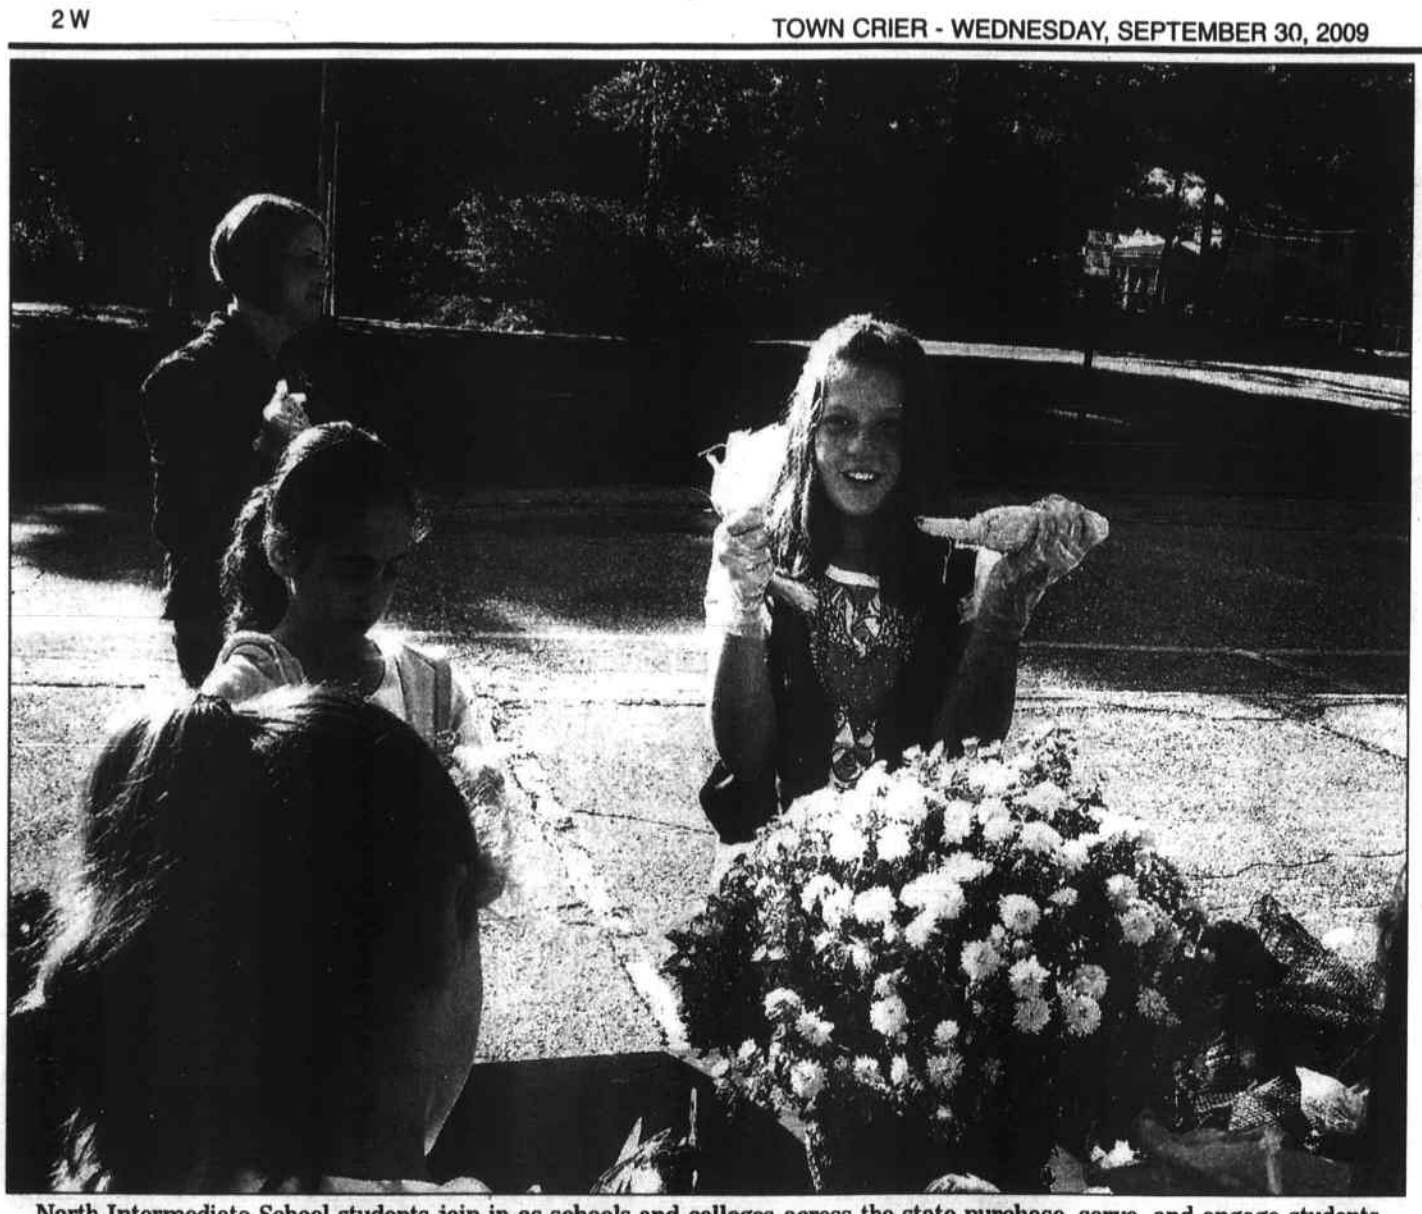

However, he still had that itch to play. And making big decisions was never a problem for him. So he decided, as a 26-year-old sophomore, to rejoin the team and pick up where he left off in 2003.

"The decision to stop coaching and play was not a hard

North Intermediate School students join in as schools and colleges across the state purchase, serve, and engage students in hands-on activities to celebrate the bounty of Massachusetts's agriculture! The goal for Massachusetts Harvest for Students Week is to encourage new relationships between schools and farms, as well as increase local foods purchasing in school and college food services around the state. Schools will also celebrate the Week with educational activities, such as creating school gardens, taking trips to farms, and integrating agricultural themes into the classroom.

A look back at Tewksbury (and Wilmington) of yesteryear...
When Tewksbury ran on hoof power

TEWKSBURY - "We was happy. It was hard work, but we enjoyed it," said Tom Sawyer in a 1975 interview with Bob Morris of the Town Crier. "It was a different class of people then. If a man said he was going to do something, his word was as good as gold."

This was not the Tom Sawyer of the Mississippi River, fictionalized by Mark Twain. There was no charging someone ten cents to let them paint your fence.

Thomas P. Sawyer was born on a 190-acre farm off Trull Road in North Tewksbury on July 1, 1897. Tewksbury was still a farming community then, and remained so well into the 20th Century.

The Sawyer family moved a few times, and Tom lived in Walpole and then in Lowell. They returned to Tewksbury in 1908, at which time Tom returned to school. Three years later, he left school at age 14.

Tom's father, Zephia, was a truck farmer, selling his vegetables out of a wagon. He would take a route out of Walpole, and might end up in Roxbury.

"I went with him more than anyone because I loved horses. My father normally had one horse to pull a heavily loaded wagon. You had to be a good reinsman and driver to handle a horse like that; you had to use some judgment," he said.

When he was 12-years old, he got a job during his Christmas vacation with his father at the Boston Ice House at Silver Lake in Wilmington. Tom had the job of chipping away ice on the chute where 500-pound cakes of ice would slide.

He recalled, "I made $1.50 for a nine-hour day. That was a lot of money in those days."

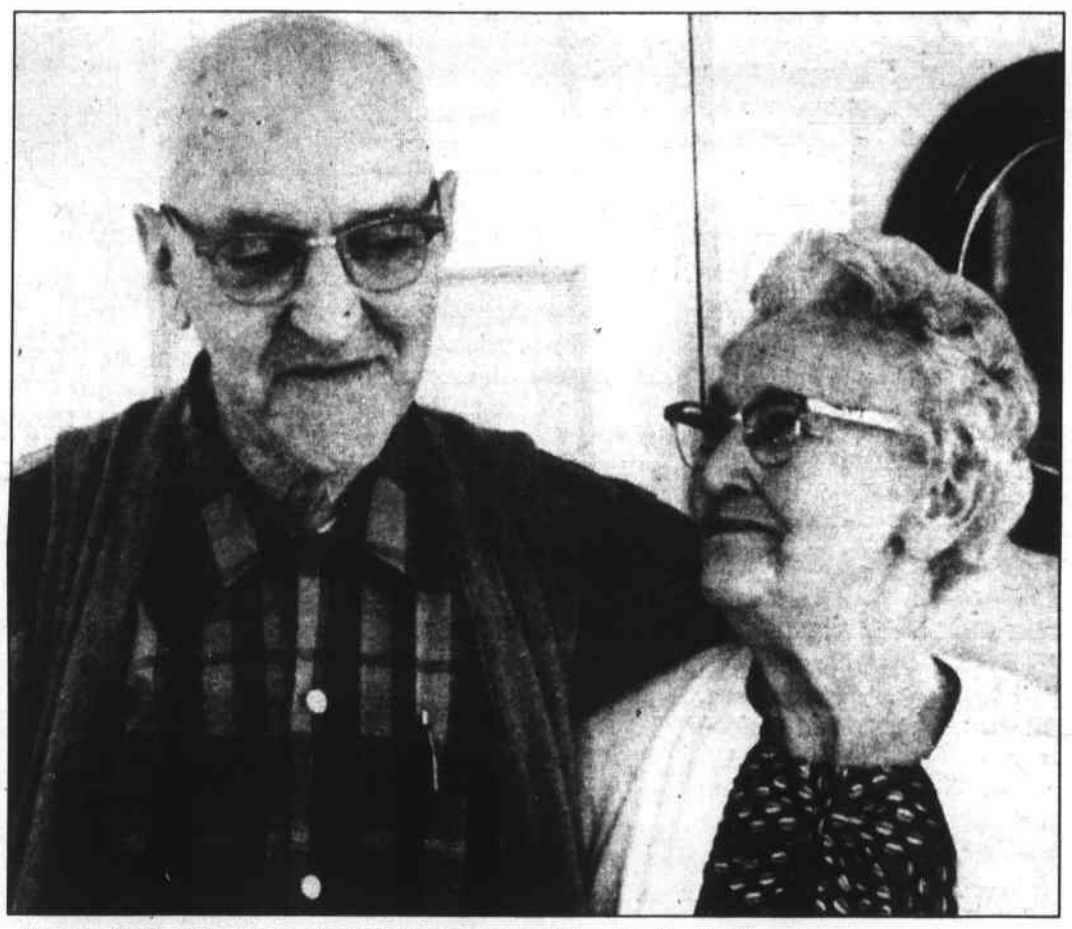

Growing up in a farm family, Tom learned to drive horses doing chores on his father's 37-acre farm off Lowe Street.

"Farm boys at that time, everybody done what I done," he said. "You had to like a horse, and give me a horse and I was in my glory."

Tom's knowledge of horses helped him when he was 14-years old and got a menial job with an ice company at Cristal Lake in Chelmsford.

"A man had been handling a two-horse team, scraping snow off the ice with six or seven other teams. His horses had been stepping over the traces, and the reins were all tangled.

"Because all the teams were working at the same time in a rotary, when one team fouled up, it held up all the rest. Finally he asked me if I could handle a team, and I said I could," said Sawyer. "He gave me that team of two black beautiful horses. I was as big as Billy Be Damned driving that team."

Tom and Alice Sawyer embodied the concept of New England grit and perseverance.

In 1914, when Tom was 17, his life changed radically.

The Burtt farm adjoined the Sawyers', and his mother had been a maternal figure to Alice Burtt, whose parents had died in 1907. Her grandmother owned the Burtt farm then.

The Burtts were an old family in Tewksbury. When the Salem & Lowell Railroad came through, the crossing at Shawsheen Street was called Burtt's Crossing.

Tom and Alice eloped in 1914. They took a train to Lowell, and then another to Portland, Maine. They found a justice of the peace, and Tom lied about his age. He was only 17, but said he was 21. Alice was already 21.

They took another train, and were home by nightfall. Tom recalled that his father was not particularly affected by the news, but that his mother was quite upset.

Tom continued to work with teams, and helped to build the Shawsheen School. He was not legally an adult, but he had men working under him and was able to borrow money to buy horses and equipment.

Tom worked with horses around Tewksbury for the next 20 years. After the old town hall was destroyed by fire in 1919, Tom hauled brick, sand and gravel from the railroad siding to the construction site of the new town hall. He played a similar role in the construction of the Congregational Church a few years later.

In the days before school buses, Tom had the contract for bringing students to the Foster School by wagon. Tom would leave from Lowe and Shawsheen streets at 8:00 a.m. He would drive through the area east of Main Street for about 45 minutes, before leaving the students at the school.

Winter brought on a different challenge. Tom would hitch up a two-horse sled with a plow on each side, and a chain underneath from plow to plow. Tom and his horses would break up drifts of four to six feet. Other teams would be hired for larger drifts.

In 1918, Tom ventured into market gardening and dairy farming. He supplied milk to the Tewksbury State Hospital, H.P. Hood & Sons, Shawsheen Dairies and Catherway Milk in Lowell until 1948.

Tom bought three cows from Carl Pettingill in Wilmington to start dairying. "I got a cow jigger, a wagon for carrying three cows, and took three of them back to my grandma's place."

"One time, I had 42 cows, and I was supplying 500 to 600 quarts of milk a day, that's 1,100 pounds," he said.

Alice used to help Tom with his chores. "She could milk a cow with the best of men. I had a good wife, a good partner to start with. She could put a pair of double horses on a harness and know how to handle them as well as a man."

Tom and Alice bought the old Burtt homestead in 1930, which included 100 acres. In 1934, Tom turned most of his activities to trading as a business. He would swap horses, cows, anything. His mother didn't like it, and he remembered her saying you couldn't trade anything without being crooked.

That year, there was a drought in western Massachusetts, and the federal government shipped 2,400 cattle, which were pastured along the length of the Massachusetts coast.

Late that year, Tom was hired to collect the cattle and bring them to Brighton for shipment. With six or seven trucks, Tom and a handful of men gathered all 2,400 head of cattle within 15 days.

Beginning in 1940, Tom began shipping cattle and horses from Canada to Tewksbury, where he sold them in the area. In 1940, he shipped 40 carloads of cattle from Prince Edward Island to his farm, where he sold them. He kept up his importation activities until 1950, when foot and mouth disease struck and the Federal government banned further importation of livestock.

During the early 1950's, Tom bought and sold pigs, sheep, goats, and "anything that had legs," according to his own account.

Always interested in politics, Tom served on the finance board from 1921 to 1945. He was the slaughterhouse inspector in 1927 and 1928, and the animal inspector in 1928. There were 700 cattle in town then, not counting the ones at the state hospital.

Tom was elected road commissioner in 1935, and held that post until 1949. "I used to spend every nickel as if it were my own," he said. "I spent my own money more than once, too."

Tom served on the Tewksbury Planning Board from 1956 to 1963, and from 1959 to 1963 was an official fence viewer.

Realizing the town would soon be built up, Tom began selling his land in 1956. The Sawyers moved to Deerfield in 1963, where they started farming a place they had bought next door to his brother's farm. He continued farming, raising cattle and sheep until 1970, when he had to give it up to devote more time to his ailing wife. Tom developed a throat tumor and underwent 34 radiation treatments.

In 1973, they moved to Wilmington, where two of their daughters lived. "We've worked awfully hard," said Alice, "but we've had a lot of happiness.

Tom lived to be nearly 100. He died on April 4, 1997, age 99 years, nine months and four days. Alice died in 1979.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN TO ESTATE TAXES?

Under the old, Bush-era tax law, estate taxes were supposed to disappear in 2010 and then come back with a vengeance - with a lower tax exemption - in 2011. Probably won't happen.

Current thinking suggests that in 2010 the basic estate-tax exemption probably will stay at $3.5 million with future adjustments for inflation. The generation-skipping and gift-tax exemptions would be set there, too. The top estate tax rate would stay at 45 percent, the current rate.

There is expected to be a big tax break for couples in a new bill. If the first-to-die doesn't utilize the entire exemption, the unused amount would pass to the surviving spouse to be used when the survivor dies. This would greatly simplify estate tax planning, eliminating the need for complicated trusts that exist solely to save on estate taxes. Also, couples would not have to retitle assets to equalize their estates.

We keep up with the latest tax issues, the better to serve you at

In appreciation

Dear Editor,

The family of Sgt. (ret) James "Jimmy" Rooney would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the people who contributed to making this very sad occasion for us, one that honored Jim in such a way that exceeded anything we could have ever imagined.

The Wilmington Police Dept., the Wilmington Fire Dept., The U.S. Army and the hundreds of friends and family who stood in long lines to pay tribute to Jim, all made this celebration of his life so special. We are especially thankful to be a part of the "Wilmington family." Wilmington never fails to embrace and pay tribute to those who have served them and we are blessed to be part of such a wonderful community.

In addition, we would like to express our gratitude to Margaret McKenna of Nichols Funeral home. Margaret attended to every detail during this very difficult time for us in a very special way. She was truly a blessing to our family. We would also like to thank the K of C in Wilmington for providing the venue and the folks at Rocco's Restaurant for serving such a fantastic luncheon following the services. Jimmy always said how proud he was to serve Wilmington and took special pride in being a life long resident. He would have been deeply touched by the efforts of so many people to honor him in such a heartfelt way.

Your kindness will always be remembered.

Sincerely,
The Entire Rooney Family

Award Winning Stuffed Mushrooms

Theresa Manganelli sent me her "Award Winning Stuffed Mushroom" recipe this week. She says she's not much of a cook, but found this easy-looking recipe and made it for an appetizer party that a group of friends hold annually. To her surprise, she won a best appetizer award. Now, whenever Theresa goes to a friend's house, she offers to bring her award winning mushrooms, and they're always a hit. An appetizer party sounded like a good idea to me, so this week I hosted a stuffed mushroom cook-off at my house. Maria Camerlengo's ricotta-stuffed mushrooms won, followed by an honorable mention for Brenda Grace's crab-stuffed mushrooms.

Award Winning Stuffed Mushrooms

3 (10 oz) packages large mushrooms
1 8 oz package cream cheese
3 oz.crumbled bleu cheese
4 oz butter
1 sleeve of Ritz crackers, hand crushed
vegetable oil

Melt cheese and butter together in saucepan. Add enough crushed Ritz crackers to thicken the mixture. Remove from heat. (At this point you can refrigerate overnight). Reserve mushroom stems for a later use. Dip each mushroom in vegetable oil and place on cookie sheet. Fill each cap with cheese mixture and bake at 350 degrees for about 20 minutes until browned on the top. Dust bread crumbs on a platter and arrange the mushrooms. Enjoy!

Ricotta Stuffed Mushrooms

10 large mushrooms
½ cup ricotta cheese
2 tbls Parmesan cheese
¼ cup unseasoned bread crumbs
2 garlic cloves, minced
2 medium eggs
2 tbls olive oil
salt and pepper

Remove mushroom stems and finely chop them, then mix with all ingredients except mushroom caps. Fill each mushroom cap with stuffing, and drizzle with more olive oil. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

Crab Stuffed Mushrooms

12 large mushrooms
2 tbls olive oil
1 ½ cups seasoned bread crumbs
2 cups crab meat
2 garlic cloves, minced
1 onion, minced
1 cup shredded Monterey Jack or Colby cheese

Remove mushroom stems and finely chop them. Heat oil in a skillet and gently sauté stems, garlic, onion, and 1 cup bread crumbs. Remove from heat, add crab meat, and mix together well. Stuff mushrooms with mixture, place in a casserole dish, and dust with remaining bread crumbs and cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

Please send your recipes ideas to paula.wilmingtoncooks@hotmail.com.

Marchese will stop the bleeding

Dear Editor,

It has been reported today that revenues in Massachusetts for the month of September are expected to be $100m to $200m less than projected. What are our legislators doing to stop the bleeding, raising our taxes and debating on Fluffernutter as the State sandwich and the Elephant as the State Land Mammal? It's about time we had real leadership in Massachusetts, and that is why I support Mario Marchese for State Representative. With his experience in budgeting and project management we can be sure Mario will work hard for our district by bringing real accountability and fiscal management to the State House. He will work longer than the house did just this past week, being in session for only 10 hours and 14 minutes! If you want to protect the future of our children in Massachusetts and change the status quo, then please join me in supporting Mario's candidacy for State Representative.

Sincerely,
Derek Santini

Be an unsung hero

Hello everyone,

It is once again time for me to ask all you unsung heroes to come back to the West Side Social Club and donate a pint of blood for the children. I cannot even explain to the fullest how important this life-giving gift is to the Children and their families who are at Children's Hospital or the Jimmy Fund Clinic. Your Pint of blood can make the difference in helping a child have the strength to forgo life saving surgery, or have the strength to sit up in bed. Your donation makes it possible for parents and family to spend more time with their loved ones. It gives a kid the strength to walk down the hallway, to go home and go to school, or just sit outside and enjoy the cool fresh autumn air. May be your donation will make the trip for a child to go apple picking possible, or for them to dream at night of doing so. I know what a pint of blood can do for a child; in fact a pint of blood physically helps four children. Emotionally it helps Parents, Brothers, Sisters, Aunts, Uncles, Cousins, Friends, Classmates, and Communities. So please become a silent unsung hero and donate a pint of your blood for four children, and keep a smile on a community's face.

Our Blood drive is in honor of Ashley Cashell (of Tewksbury), Justin Hayes, Chris Barnes, Gianna Martiniello, Milana Rufo, and Courtney Robichaud, but the blood collected helps all the children being treated at Children's and the Jimmy Fund Clinic.

The dates are October 15 & 16, at the West Side Social Club, 4 Harrington Court, Wakefield, MA 01880. The times are from 11:30 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. both days. Appointments take priority, but walk-ins are welcome. We have instituted a ticket system to ensure that appointments have minimal wait, if any.

Please make an appointment by emailing me, at Meancash@aol.com.

As usual there will be pizza, coffee, doughnuts, soda, and juice available. If you have had low iron you should start eating those iron rich foods now, and make sure you have had something to eat before you donate.

Thank you,
Mark Cashell, Ashley's Dad

Let's Hear it!!

Your Two Cents...

Do you need a permit to rent an in-law apartment in Wilmington?

Wilmington

Let's hear it for the Wilmington DPW for (delightfully) surprising me with their tree removal efforts on Chestnut St. late last week. Two trees at the very edge of my property line were a potential big time snowstorm/icestorm road hazard, and now they're gone! And a high-five for the same crew who returned to repair my mailbox that was inadvertently damaged in the process. Looks brand new again. And if that wasn't enough, I received a notice from my bank alerting me that my monthly escrow payment for real estate taxes had gown DOWN $100/month. I'm a pretty happy Wilmington resident. Nice job and thanks y'all!

Wilmington

A double thumbs-down to anyone who says he is a veteran, but never served a day in the military.

Wilmington

People who live in glass houses...

Wilmington

To the spineless poster in last week's My Two Cents column: get your facts straight and stop posting lies. How many more organizations are going to ban you before you go away? Please just go away.

Wilmington

We are going to need a bigger boat.

Wilmington

I appreciate the bus problem being addressed in last week's paper; however, I do not agree that the problem is solved. There has only been mention of a particular Wildwood route but my issue is with Bus 8 going to the West/Shawsheen. A couple of stops had been removed from the route in week two of school, but my kids still don't get off the bus until at least 3:45pm (45 minutes after the end of school day). The problem hasn't been solved, it's just that many parents, including myself, have given up complaining and are picking our kids up at school so that we have more time for homework and can get to CCD on time.

Wilmington

Why do people who know the least know it the loudest?

Wilmington

STAMP is a great organization that always makes the right decision and I'm looking forward to their fundraising so I can assist them with their worthy efforts.

Wilmington

You know the economy is bad when old men are stealing beef products.

Wilmington

How's your corned beef?

When you get to be my age, 45 days seems like one week.

Wilmington

45 days have come and gone. It went too fast.

Wilmington

HA HA HA HA HA HA Chocolate makes me SMILE. HA HA HA HA

Wilmington

I hope everyone who rents an in-law apartment in Wilmington is claiming the income.

Wilmington

Eat more chicken.

Wilmington

A big double thumbs down to Wilmington's Safey Officer and the Wilmington Public School transportation staff for thinking the 4-way intersection at Parker, Adams and Sheldon Streets is a safe place for our children to wait for the bus. It's been unsafe for the past 11 years, what makes it safe now??? Just today, not only did one car turn from Adams onto Parker without stopping, but one car even went through the intersection without stopping while the children were getting on the bus! Please rethink your decision!

Suitcases For Kids

Club WHS helping kids in foster care

WILMINGTON - Club WHS, the community service club at Wilmington High School, does community service projects in the community, and is excited about its newest project! The club has been asked to be involved in a collection drive and fundraising effort for 'Suitcases 4 Kids'. Suitcases 4 Kids collects suitcases to donate to children in foster care for their use when they are relocated from house to house. Club WHS hopes to get Wilmington residents involved in a big way!

During the week of October 5th through the 9th, before and after school, suitcases can be dropped off in the foyer of the High School. Back packs, duffle bags, and luggage, new or gently used, are welcome and appreciated.

The main day of the collection event is on Saturday, October 10th (rain or shine) from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the High School. Students will be collecting donated luggage and large bags on the High School's front steps. Residents can just drive up and drop off their suitcases, duffle bags or backpacks at the Church St. entrance!

Club WHS is also planning to collect suitcases on October 10th at local supermarkets in town.

No suitcases? No problem! Have a meal at Fuddrucker's in N. Andover on Wednesday, September 30, 5 - 10 p.m. and 10% of the proceeds will be donated to Suitcases 4 Kids!

Club WHS is working to help the Suitcases 4 Kids organization meet its goal of 14,000 suitcases. They're hoping to collect over 1,000 suitcases in Wilmington.

Suitcases 4 Kids is co-sponsored by the Haverhill Office of the Department of Children and Families.

Anne Marie O'Reilly

Teacher in Wilmington Schools; volunteered with Girl Scouts, CCD Teacher; Playschool Teacher

WILMINGTON - Mrs. Anne Marie (Frotten) O'Reilly died Sunday, September 27, 2009, of cancer at the Sawtelle Family Hospice House, surrounded by her family while listening to her favorite music.

Born in Reading, Anne was the daughter of the late Frank E. and Nora A. (Scanlon) Frotten. The Frotten family moved to the Cranberry House on Middlesex Avenue when Anne was very young, and there she met her lifelong friend, Janet Condrey Beyer. The family soon moved to Wildwood Street where Anne called home for the rest of her life. In high school Anne was class secretary, football cheerleader, and star of the class play. Here also she met her future husband, Gerry "Scratch" O'Reilly. She graduated from Wilmington High School as the class salutatorian. She continued her education at Regis College in Weston where she received her bachelor's degree in English, and later she received her master's degree from Lesley College.

Anne began her teaching career, returning to Wilmington High as an English teacher. She taught three generations of Wilmington families at both Wilmington High School and the North Intermediate School. Anne loved teaching and learning, and during her career she began many wonderful friendships and experienced many joyful moments. Anne loved going to school every day, interacting with her students and spending time with her colleagues. After retirement, Anne maintained friendships with many colleagues whose presence in her life she treasured and relied on. She looked forward to the "old" NIS staff get-togethers where they shared stories of the good old days and commiserated over new life experiences.

Though Anne loved her career as a teacher, her greatest passion was her family. Anne raised a family of six children whose happiness and comfort were her ambition and inspiration. With her husband, Gerry, she made the Wildwood house a home to her own children and to many more. Her six grandchildren also knew "Grammy's House" as their home. For the grandchildren, summer was synonymous with spending time at Grammy's, swimming all day in the pool, enjoying sleep-overs with the cousins, and gobbling down the special treats only a grandmother could provide. The extended family united for every birthday and holiday, a tradition Anne held dear. Anne was a lifelong fan of her husband's, children's, and grandchildren's games and events. Whether it was hockey, baseball, softball, basketball, a play, or spelling bee, Anne was there clapping loudly, looking on proudly. In her "free time," Anne also volunteered as a Girl Scout leader, playschool teacher, and CCD teacher. Her family filled her life, and she was the heart and soul of theirs.

Anne and Gerry spent great times with their dear friends, Janet and Harry Beyer, Jane and Jed Griffin, and Judy and Ken Palm. Anne especially looked forward to her book club meetings with Janet Beyer, Judy Palm, Jane Griffin, Joanne Phillips, and Cathy Symonds who met to share lively, intellectual dialogue of their latest selection and the joy of each other's company. She traveled with her husband Gerry to Maine, Pennsylvania, Cape Cod, and Ireland. She loved trips into Boston for great food, a good play, or a museum walk. She was a Red Sox fanatic, watching games up until her last days snuggled up with her beloved, best four-legged friend, Maud Gonne.

Anne's love and goodness knew no bounds. Her strength and grace carried her through all that life put before her. As her life drew to its end, she never complained nor felt sorry for herself. She surrounded herself with family and friends whose company was her best medicine and whose love gave her immense comfort.

She leaves behind her beloved husband of 51 years, Gerry; her children Mary Ellen and Jerry Powers of Somerville, Janet O'Reilly of Medford, Patricia O'Reilly of Wilmington, Deirdre and Tom Cotter of Kingston, NH, Gerry and Karen O'Reilly of Wilmington, and Tom O'Reilly of Charlestown; loving grandchildren, Catherine, Lily, Annie and Ella Cotter of Kingston, NH, and Alex and Gerry O'Reilly of Wilmington; her sister Mary Smith of Wilmington; and her lifelong friends, Janet (Condrey) Beyer and Judy (Condrey) Palm. She was the sister of the late George Arthur Frotten of Lowell.

Visiting hours will be on Thursday, October 1st at the Nichols Funeral Home Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington, from 4-8 p.m. Her Funeral Mass will be held at 10:30 a.m. on Friday, October 2nd in St. Thomas of Villanova Church, 126 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington. Graveside to follow at Wildwood Cemetery.

Are you a Bookie?

WILMINGTON - When was the last time you dropped by the Friends of the Wilmington Memorial Library's unique used bookstore? The Book Store Next Door - to the library, 183 Middlesex Avenue - is open for shopping and dropping off your donations every Saturday from 10-4, Sundays noon-3, and, through October, Wed. nights, 4-7.

The holidays are around the corner, and kids, especially, revel in these special day events. Get some ideas for parties from the many activity books and give out books as party favors; most kids' paperbacks cost 50-cents.

The Internet has become an easy reference tool, but books are still comforting, and are often more reliable, so we have old-time favorites and recent books on psychology, dieting, sports or hobbies, biographies, history, etc. Of course, the shelves reflect what you give us, so if you bought it (even "back then") chances are someone else may too! You never know what you find, so leave some time to shop after you drop! We'll try to keep you from buying back your donations!

Please contact Leslie Dietrich, 978-657-6536 or lesd4@verizon.net for questions about pick-ups or volunteering. Your donations are tax deductible and all profits benefit the programs of the Wilmington Memorial Library. Thank you for your support.

Wamesit Masonic Lodge to hold open house on Saturday

70 Victor Drive, Tewksbury

The Freemasons across Massachusetts will be opening their doors to host a state-wide open house to inform the public about freemasonry.

Freemasonry is the world's oldest and largest men's fraternity in the world and also it is America's oldest fraternity and charitable organization. Thirteen signers of the Constitution and fourteen Presidents of the United States, including George Washington, were Freemasons.

The origins of Freemasonry are rooted in the guilds of stonemasons, who built the castles and cathedrals during the middle ages. The tools and objects used by stonemasons have been adapted as symbols in the ceremonies of modern Freemasonry to teach moral lessons. Known worldwide as a symbol of character, charity and friendship, the Square and Compasses design is the emblem of every Masonic lodge.

Today, Freemasonry is a fraternity that brings together good men from various political, social, ethnic and religious backgrounds to work to improve themselves and their communities in the spirit of brotherly love, relief and truth. There are more than two million Freemasons in North America alone, 45,000 of which are Massachusetts Freemasons.

"Square & Compasses Day" gives the public an opportunity to learn more about Masonry. Although many have heard of our organization, few are aware of our charitable contribution to society or the unbroken tradition of great men who have changed our world in many fields of endeavor. Benjamin Franklin, Thurgood Marshall, John Glenn, Winston Churchill, George C. Marshall, Danny Thomas, Henry Ford, Cy Young, Buzz Aldrin, Franklin D. and Theodore Roosevelt and General Douglas MacArthur, for example, all joined the Masons prior to achieving the successes for which they are recognized. There are countless other great men whose names are not widely known, that made their communities a better place. Many of these men are the fathers, grandfathers, friends, and co-workers of people in and around your own community.

Come down to the Lodge and learn about this ancient fraternity that is steeped in mystery and medieval history and referenced in so many recent books and movies. Take a tour of our Lodge and learn about Masonic history in Tewksbury and Massachusetts; meet and talk to members and ask questions.

We cordially invite you to join us on "Square & Compasses Day," Saturday, October 17, 2009, 9:00 AM to 3:00 PM, for coffee and muffins and to ask questions - you may be surprised at what you'll learn.

one. That had been my goal since I got out of the Army, but due to various injuries it had been impossible," he says. "I had been feeling pretty healthy lately though and after discussing it with the entire coaching staff as well as some close friends and family I decided to try and play again."

Head coach Bryan Scales says that O'Brien moving from the sidelines to the playing field was a no-brainer.

"After our second game this season (a 1-0 loss to Dominican) the staff recognized that we lack some personality and leadership in some areas," he says. "There was a void that needed to be filled. This is when John came in to the office the next morning and said that he wanted to play. It was his decision and I think it gave a real lift to the team."

O'Brien, who will be turning 27 in October, says that interacting with teammates eight and nine years younger than him hasn't been a problem at all, even if he was their coach only a month ago.

"They are a fairly mature group of guys and as we are all going through the same experiences as a team it gives us a common ground," he says. "As far as being a coach at the beginning of the season the adjustment has not been hard. As a coach or a player your goal is to gain the trust of the guys on your team and that can only be done through sharing experiences together."

Scales says that physically O'Brien has looked strong in training.

"Chris Foye, our athletic trainer, has been instrumental in helping John prepare his body to compete and recover the proper way so that he doesn't have any setbacks," he says. "(John's) soccer brain is very sharp and he reads the game well. For him it has been like getting back on a bike. You won't find anyone who is more driven, committed and focused than he is."

O'Brien has started the last two games for the River Hawks, a 2-0 loss to Penman and a 3-2 loss against American International College.

"I am taking it day by day and doing everything I can to make the team better," he says. "I'm doing my best to keep up with the other guys. Anything that I lack physically I try to compensate for with my experience by putting myself in advantageous positions on the field."

The elephant in the room is that O'Brien can be redeployed at any time.

"There is always the chance that I could be recalled and sent to Iraq or Afghanistan with a unit that needs personnel," he says. "I try not to think about it too much because the truth of the matter is that I don't have any control over it. If it happens though I will make the best of the situation."

He believes that the American mission in Iraq has been a success and that the public doesn't see all the good that is being done over there.

"It's hard for people at home to see, but being over there I was able to see all the little things that we do on a daily basis that make a difference in people's lives," he says.

"As far as the media is concerned I think they have covered the war in a way that will captivate their audience. Most people would not tune in to a news report that shows something as arbitrary as soldiers providing free medical assistance for local Iraqis."

John O'Brien is studying for a master's in criminal justice and hopes to work in counterterrorism. He says the skills he learned in the battlefield will help him on the soccer field and beyond.

"I learned a lot of important skills relating to leadership while I was in the Army," he says. "Most importantly though is to lead by example. Whether it's in battle or while playing soccer if your teammates see you doing the work it will drive them to do the same thing."

Century 21 Starwood of Wilmington once again partnered with Elia's Country Store to help the Wilmington Food Pantry. Along with generous food donations, customers and residents of Wilmington also gave monetary donations.

Main Street, Tewksbury closure

Seek alternate routes on Sunday, October 4

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

TEWKSBURY - Drivers beware! A little advance planning will save a lot of headaches beginning on Sunday, October 4, when a significant section of Main Street will be closed to thru traffic between the hours of 7:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. to accommodate a large road construction project.

As the sewer project nears completion later this year, contractors are working to finish up the remaining areas, including one more complicated project on Main Street. The new sewer pipe will cross two travel lanes on Main Street and will require a new sewer manhole to be installed and connected to existing sewer line. Both the angle of the crossing and the fact that it crosses travel lanes forced the temporary closure of the road for the duration of the work.

On Sunday October 4 Main Street /Rte. 38 will be closed between Victor Drive and Villa Roma Drive from the hours of 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. Traffic traveling northbound towards Lowell will be detoured from Main Street to Shawsheen Street to East Street and back to Main Street. Main Street will be accessible to Mahoney's Nursery and Tidal Wave Car Wash from this direction only.

Traffic traveling southbound towards Wilmington will be detoured from Main Street to Chandler Street, onto Foster Road and to Shawsheen Street before returning to Main Street. Please note Main Street will be accessible to Victor Drive and Villa Roma Drive from this direction only.

The road will be open to the motorists/public that need access to St. Williams Church and the local businesses or residences in the area. However, no thru traffic will be permitted as noted above.

Carlos Jaquez, Project Manager, said the 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. timeframe provides a guideline for motorists and is subject to change due to mitigating job site conditions and weather conditions. Emergency vehicles will be allowed to pass through the work area.

On Monday, weather permitting, the contractor will return to this area to install the temporary trench paving. No road closure will be necessary for this part of the process and during the hours of 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. work will continue with traffic passing by in an alternating pattern.

Jaquez said they do not anticipate anyone in the area being without water because they worked early last week to install additional water valves on the water main specifically to avoid any disruption in service. "However," Jaquez added, "with this work there are unforeseen circumstances that may occur and cause unexpected or unplanned disruptions."

Jaquez said, "We appreciate your cooperation and patience during this phase of the construction process."

A Reverse 911 call to residents also indicated that any changes to this schedule would be posted on the Town website and the Town's local access channel.

Residents with any questions should contact the CDM field office at 978-640-1177 or the Tewksbury Engineering Division at 978-640-4370.

Insanity defense

where Mattian was pronounced dead.

Belanger was arraigned on a charge of murder in his hospital room the following day where he pleaded not guilty. He then underwent a 20-day psychiatric evaluation at Bridgewater State Hospital.

Following the assessment at the state hospital, the Commonwealth's assessment said Belanger is competent to stand trial. Krasnoo says being competent to stand trial and mounting an insanity defense are not mutually exclusive.

Being competent, says Krasnoo, roughly means that the client has an understanding of what is going on in the trial and can aid counsel. The threshold for insanity is different, however, and addresses the question of whether or not the defendant could appreciate the "rightfulness or wrongfulness" of the action at the moment of the incident.

Right now, the court appointed doctor is exploring all the documentation surrounding Belanger's "unfortunate prior medical, psychiatric, psychological, educational and hospitalization history," stated Krasnoo. "That's where we are."

Belanger is due back in court December 11 for a status hearing.

Mattian, a Wilmington resident, was a therapist with Lawrence-based Family Continuity for 11 years and Director of its FLEX Program since 2001.

For anyone who cares about children

Free trainings by the Military Child Education Coalition

WILMINGTON - Did you know there are over 12,000 children in Massachusetts who have a family member serving in some branch of the military? These children are from all over the Commonwealth. You might have one living next door or in your classroom or in your youth group. For these children, the deployment of a family member is a real possibility - if it is not already happening - and can affect any military family at any time, many times over.

From now through 2010 over 2000 Massachusetts National Guard members and many hundred additional service members from the other military branches and Coast Guard in Massachusetts will be deployed. The children in these families face unique challenges and can best be supported by those who understand what they are going through.

Thus, the Massachusetts National Guard Family Program invites you to attend either or both of the FREE training's conducted by the Military Child Education Coalition (MCEC www.militarychild.org) in Natick this fall. Geared toward educators, social workers and counselors, the sessions are open to anyone who works with or cares about children. Professional Development and Continuing Education Credits are available.

Olin ready for fieldwork sites for decades. The group identified a list of 200 chemicals potentially at the site, some very rare.

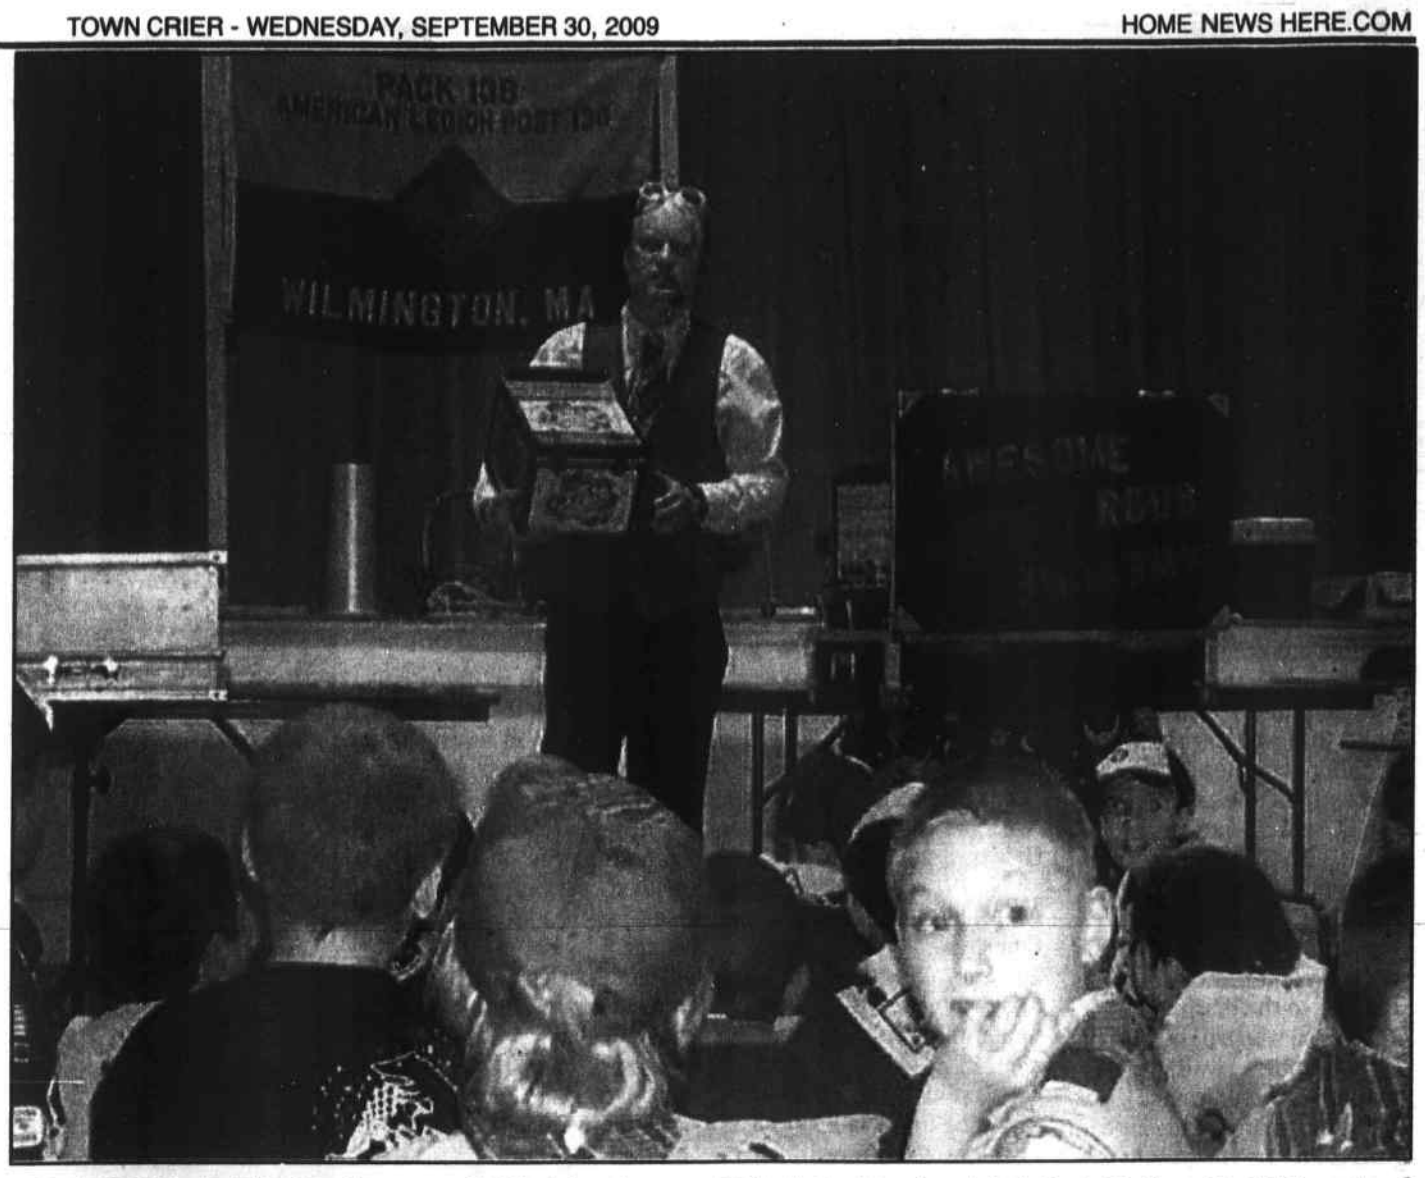

That documentation identifies a plume of contamination running from the lagoons into the Maple Meadow Brook. Further, DiLorenzo remains concerned about two private wells in the Cook Avenue neighborhood that tested positive for the presence of NDMA. The amounts detected are tremendously small, in the parts per trillion.

"There is a concern because it is there, but it is not yet a health concern," said DiLorenzo who later added, when responding to a question from Selectman Michael Champoux, that there is concern because no chemicals were found in those wells in 2005. At this point, no one is sure if the currently miniscule presence is evidence of the leading edge of the plume.

Champoux asked if the plume could spread in the months the fieldwork is taking place. DiLorenzo estimated that the town is about three to three-and-a half years away from beginning the actual clean up. One, possibly two, rounds of fieldwork must be completed first, which includes 150 groundwater samples and 100 soil samples, each one testing for 200-or-so chemicals.

Only recently did the parties agree on a work plan for the site, which governs how samples are collected and how they are analyzed. Now that Olin is committed to the fieldwork, the first phase will likely take between 12 to 15 months. Olin will go forward to obtain soil and water testing data from the more than 100 monitoring wells associated with the project, but with the DEP, EPA, and GeoInsight effectively looking over Olin's shoulder.

The public information session will be held at 7:00 p.m. at the middle school on October 19. The public is encouraged to attend.

Pack 136 kicked off the Scouting year with Magician Awesome Robb during Tuesday night's Pack Meeting. Pack 136 meets Tuesday night's at 6:30 at Villanova Hall. Boys from the 1st to 5th grade are welcome to stop in anytime to sign up. Please contact Paul Tivnan at 978-694-4027 or Chris Eckelkamp at 978-265-1337 for more information.

Wilmington, but would not divulge any further information citing policy regarding ongoing investigations.

The MSPCA's Law Enforcement Department responds only to allegations of animal cruelty, not to reports of things like cats in trees or barking dogs, says Adams. A person can call the MSPCA directly to make an allegation of animal abuse or the unit can be referred through another law enforcement agency. Often the MSPCA will work as consultants with local law enforcement, supporting that agency's investigation.

"We are a group of specially trained State Police officers that work solely for the MSPCA, carry a weapon, and can execute search warrants," said Adams. "We also have investigative powers for animal cruelty."

When an investigation is opened the officers interview the parties involved, ascertain the animals involved, and may seize animals as evidence. Owners may also surrender an animal.

"In most cases the alleged animal cruelty can be solved by using education on the officer's part and some sort of agreed upon outcome without pressing charges," said Adams. "That's the majority of the cases we deal with."

However, if a case warrants charges, the unit will bring those through the criminal justice system. Each count of animal cruelty is punishable by a fine up to $2,500 or up to 5 years in prison.

The MSPCA operates statewide with its law enforcement officers and investigates on average, 3,000 cases annually. That figure does not include local law enforcement or other animal welfare organizations.

The MSPCA operates statewide with its law enforcement officers and investigates, on average, 3,000 cases per year. That does not include local law enforcement or other animal welfare organizations.

Adams did not indicate how long the investigation might take, but that cases without charges often take as long to investigate as those that may bring charges.

According to Sawyer, investigations into animal cruelty are not necessarily uncommon in Wilmington, or any other community, but most do not go to court unless it's a "horrific situation."

"We've been really lucky in Wilmington; we haven't had to take much to court," Sawyer told the Crier. "Sometimes people need a wake-up call or sometimes it's more about a neighbor calling in on another neighbor."

WHS threatened

Town law enforcement and fire agencies. Since there was a specified time, we are delaying school at the high school by two hours tomorrow, Tuesday, September 29th to assuage any concerns," said the message, recorded by Superintendent Joanne Benton.

The message went on to indicate that busses would run two hours later than normal and that the school would have a controlled entry. During a controlled entry students and staff must enter through the gymnasium and no backpacks or bags are allowed inside the building. Lunches are no exception and must be carried in a clear plastic bag.

Benton spoke to the Crier midday Tuesday, following the controlled entry at 9:40 a.m., and said it went "very well," with fewer than 20 kids bringing backpacks to school. In the case of a controlled entry the school will hold the backpacks until the end of the day.

The threat, scrawled in a boys' bathroom, was specific as to time but Benton declined to comment further, citing the ongoing investigation.

School threats have attracted media attention lately, most recently with a case in Concord-Carlisle regional high school last week. In that case the student that made the threat was arrested.

Benton also hopes to find out who wrote Monday's threat.

"It's a huge disruption to the school day," said Benton, who plans to ask the School Committee to hire a bathroom monitor to prevent similar incidents in the future.

After the writing was found Monday afternoon the School Department called in the North Eastern Massachusetts Law Enforcement Council's (NEMLEC) STARS team. STARS stands for School Threat Assessment and Response System.

"They were here right away yesterday," Benton told the Crier. The STARS team brought in multiple K-9 units to do a sweep of the building yesterday afternoon. Officers also aided in the controlled entry Tuesday morning. "We had officers from Reading, Watertown, and Woburn here this morning."

Level 3 sex offender arrested

ordered him held without bail, pending a dangerousness hearing set for Thursday, October 1. If convicted, Gagnon could face 20 years behind bars.

Gagnon was released from prison in February 2007 after serving 26 years for sex crimes against children. He was convicted in April 1980 on three counts of rape, one count of rape of child with force, and one count of assault with intent to commit rape.

He made headlines in March of 2008 after Tewksbury resident, and parent, Andrea Green learned that Gagnon was working at the 1928 Main Street McDonalds restaurant in Tewksbury. She was upset that a restaurant catering to, and hiring, children and young people would hire a Level 3 sex offender.

Gagnon had been hired by the popular eatery before the Sex Offender Registry Board (SORB) classified him as a Level 3 sex offender. The restaurant terminated his employment, per company policy, when it learned of his status.

McDonald's Vice President Dan Frazier wrote in a statement to the Town Crier, "The hiring of this individual was against our company policy. This was an unfortunate isolated oversight. The employee who was responsible for hiring Mr. Gagnon no longer works for our company, and reports that any other member of our management team had prior knowledge of this incident are completely untrue. When we became aware of the facts in this situation, the individual was terminated immediately in accordance with our company policy."

Gagnon filed a civil suit against Green, but dropped it soon after.

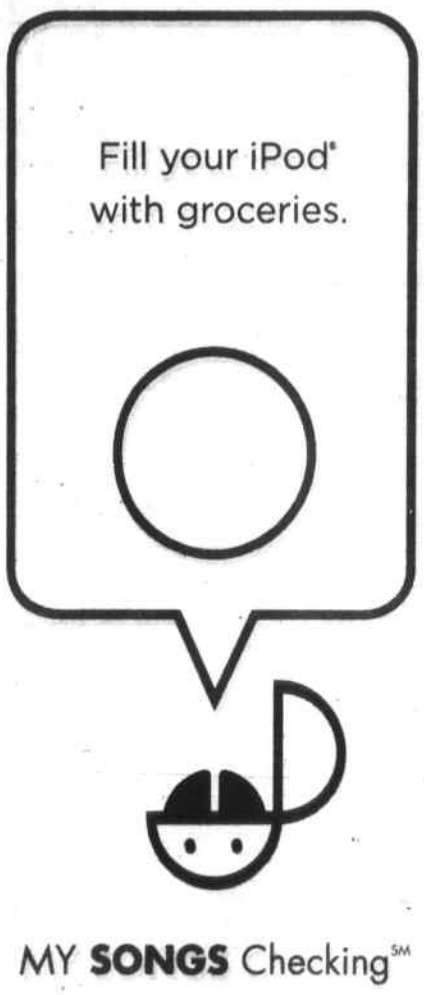

Information on where Level 2 and 3 sex offenders live and work are posted on local police department websites as well as on the SORB website. There is no limitation to the dissemination of information about sex offenders as long as the information is obtained through legal channels, such as the website, and may not be used to commit a crime against an offender.

The SORB took a nearly a year to classify Gagnon. The classification process is rarely so protracted, Charles MacDonald, - a spokesperson for SORB - told the Crier in March 2008. Due to legislative changes, any sex offender convicted after December 20, 2006 must be classified prior to release from prison. However, for those convicted before that date, the state was embroiled in trying to keep up with classifications soon after release. MacDonald declined to release any information particular to the case, including why Gagnon's classification took so long. Recently released convicts have the right to challenge the classification and can even request hearings, further delaying the process.

The SORB looks at twenty-five factors when making the classification, including whether the victim was a child, if force was used, if drugs and alcohol abuse were a factor, or if the convict received cognitive behavior modification while incarcerated.

In the 1990's the SORB was periodically shut down because the process did not protect the constitutional rights of the offenders, according to Massachusetts courts. Today the Board has a procedural roadmap that holds up under the law.

Helps raise money with a fun event

K of C hits a home run with wiffleball tournament

By BECCA QUIGLEY
Sports Correspondent

This past Saturday was a day of old traditions, tons of fun, and some fast-pitch, competitive-edged Wiffleball.

The Knights of Columbus hosted its fourth-ever Wiffleball tournament in Wilmington, which was actually a revival of a tradition first begun in the mid-1990s by Jerry Lawrenson and Jerry O'Reilly.

"This is something we've been trying to bring back and get more people involved in for a while," said Ray Mercuri, Jr., current Grand Knight/director. "We thought it would be something worthwhile for us to pursue in order to raise money while at the same time having fun."

The fundraiser started being organized in June by Mercuri, along with members Justin Strem, Billy Liston, and Norm Keough. After being pushed back from its originally scheduled date due to the remnants of a tropical storm, the tournament was finally held on Saturday and ended up consisting of a total of 11 teams.

The tournament was open to everyone; however, there were a significant number of teams that consisted of Knights of Columbus members from surrounding towns such as Tewksbury, Billerica, and North Reading.

"Considering a couple teams had to dropout because of the re-scheduling, I'd say we were pleased with the turnout," said Strem. "We were hoping to get close to 16 teams, so we have something to shoot for next year."

The tournament hosted about 50 players, four or five people to each team. Every individual team had one captain, and some even got creative with a team name (for example, one team called themselves the Dumpster Divers). The captains were Mike Senarian, Rob McIssac, John Stokes, Tim Hogg, Ray Mercuri, Mike Cabral, Brendan Strem, Ryan Keefe, Scott McKenzie, Bill Fecteau and Joey Decowski.

The tournament was also set up in a double elimination bracket, meaning teams could have a chance of entering a championship even with one loss. Overall, 21 games were played, with some teams playing four to six rounds depending on byes and their position in the bracket before heading towards the championship.

Luckily, the Knights of Columbus witnessed a day of perfect weather, so the event ran from 8:30 in the morning to 6:00 p.m. without interruption. It was played in the Knights of Columbus parking lot, which was divided into two playing fields with games running simultaneously.

"Playing on the hard pavement wasn't even the most difficult part," said Mercuri. "What really proved to be the problem was trying to hit the ball! There was some incredibly fast pitching in these games."

One of the most noteworthy components of many teams was the standout pitchers, all of whom threw several strikeouts throughout the day. Captain John Stokes' pitching was able to pull out three wins for his team as well as a spot in the championship game. Bob Voner (Ray Mecuri's team) and Mikey Fay (Brendan Strem's team) were throwing great risers. Pitcher Dave Senerian and Bill Fecteau's team also threw several scoreless innings.

A major match-up between Mercuri's team and Stokes' team resulted in a 13 inning game that was a shutout until the last inning, when Stokes' team pulled ahead by two runs. Mercuri's team eventually finished in third place while Stokes remained undefeated all the way to the final championship game.

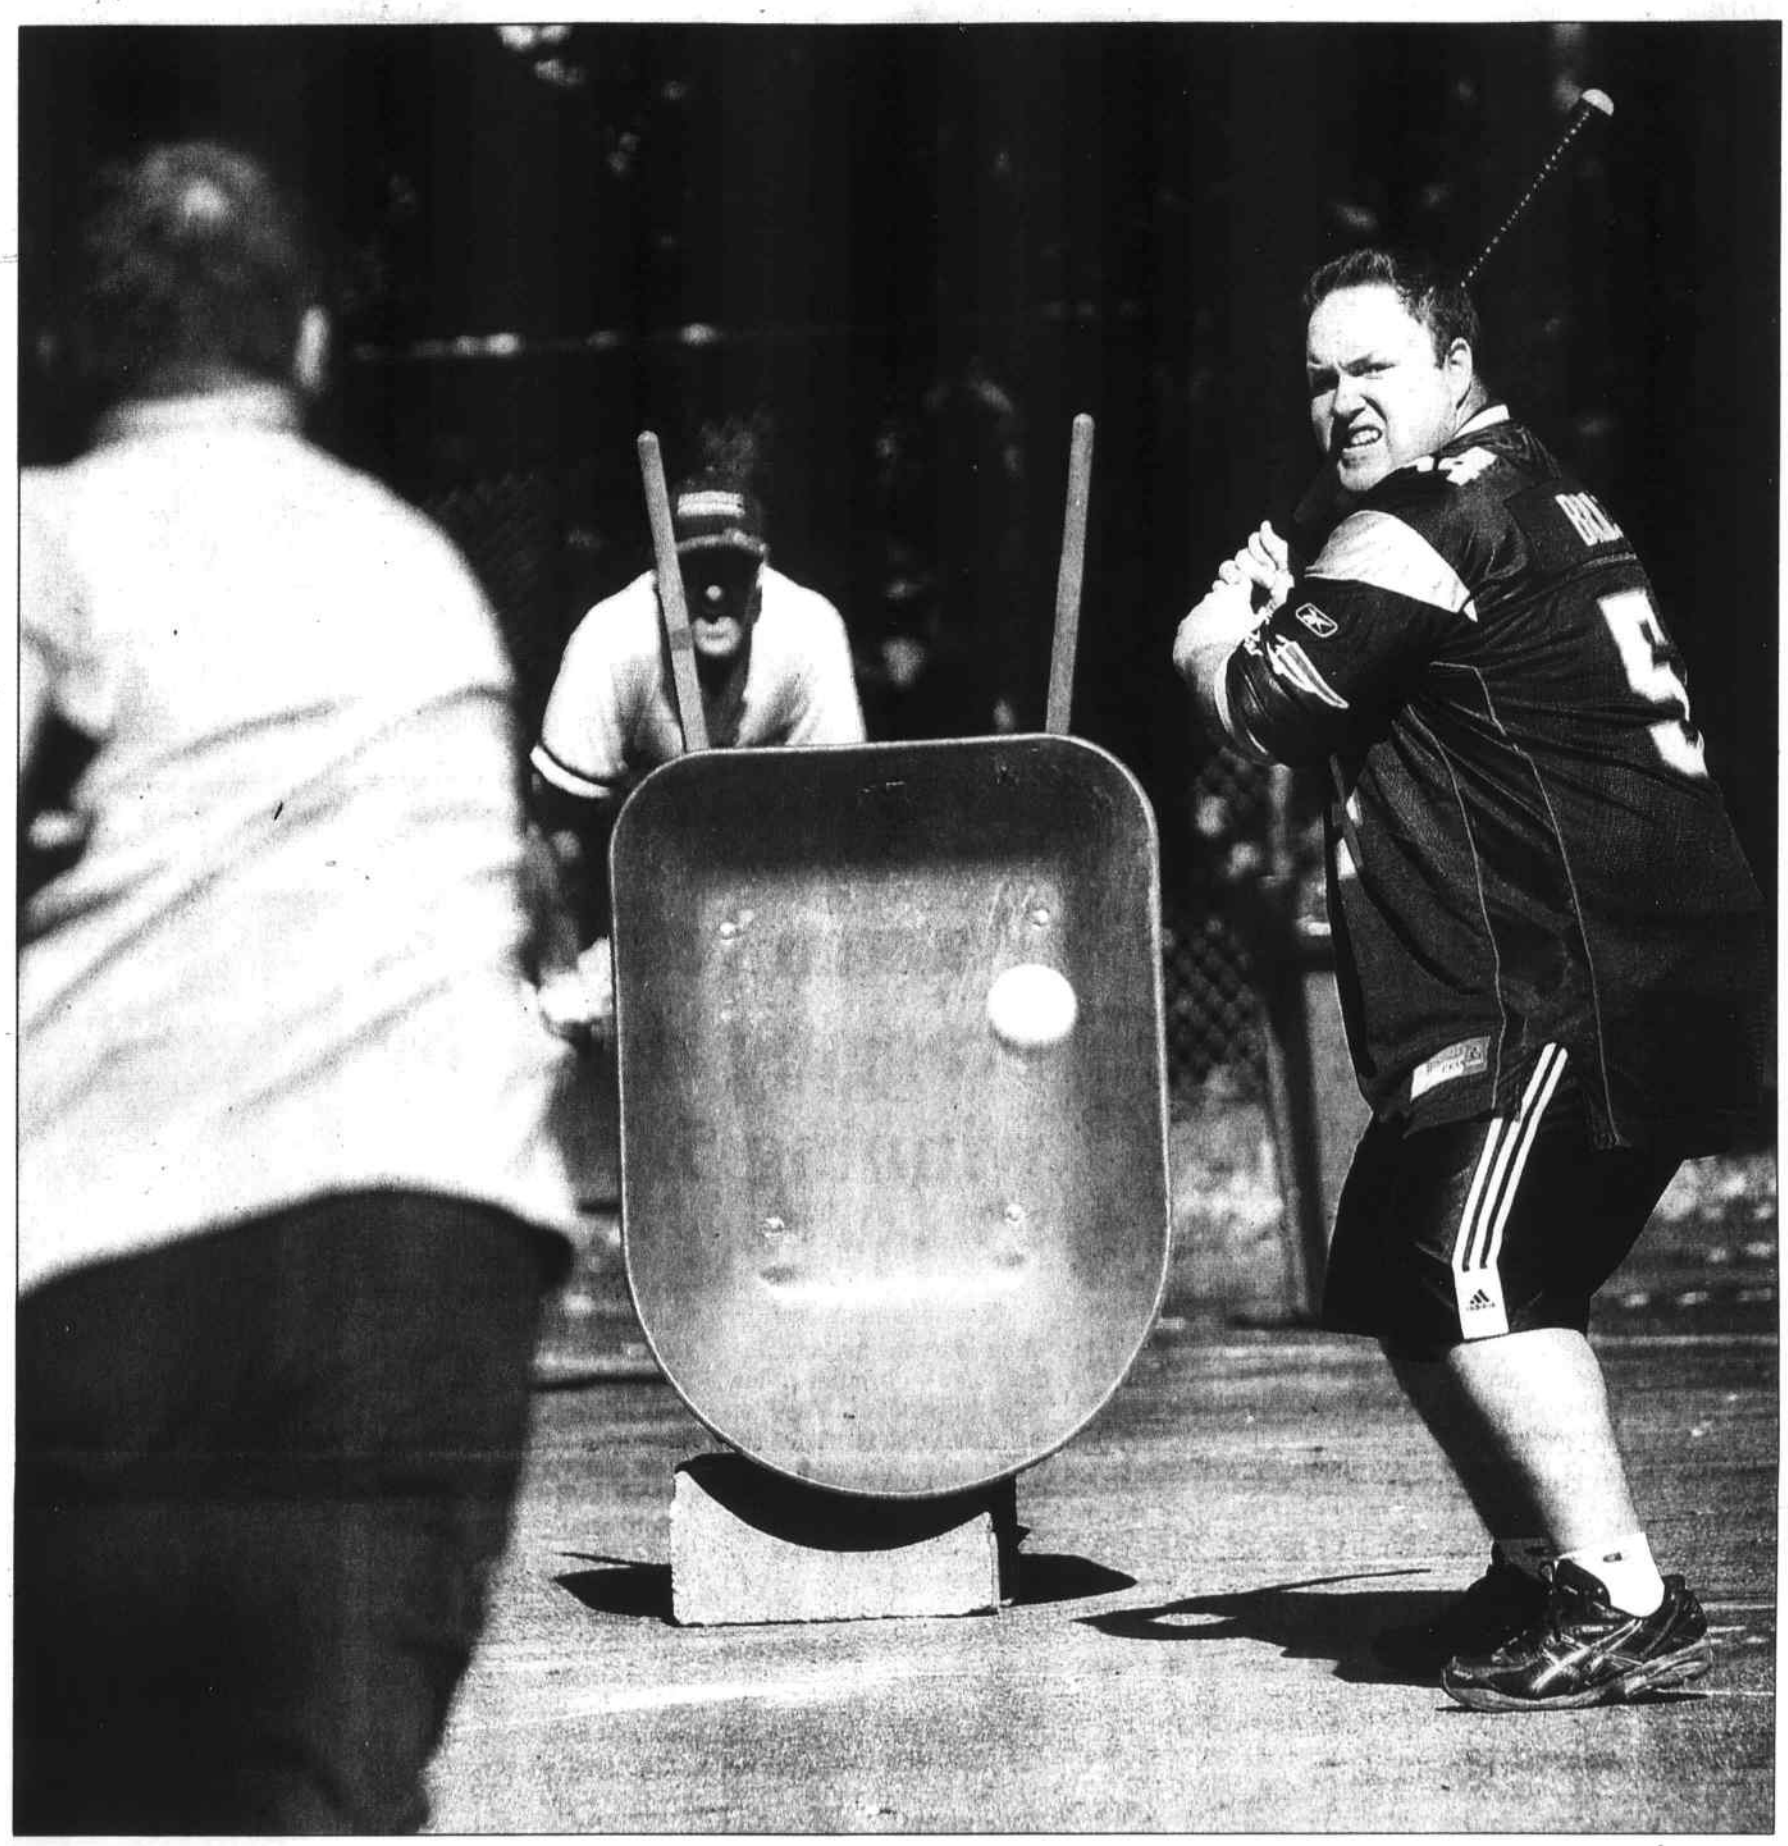

In the championship game, Stokes' team (also consisting of Chris, Rick, Brendon and Terry Shaw) and Mike Senarian's team (including Dave Senarian, Andy Campbell, and Jason Riley) showed a strong match-up ending in a final score of 5-2, with Stokes' team winning the tournament.

"Although Stokes' team was undefeated throughout the day, their extremely close game with Mercuri's team along with Dave Senarian's great pitching made it tough to predict the outcome of the final game," said Strem.

According to Strem, the championship game was basically all about John Stokes dominating pitching, which proved to be strong throughout the entire day. At first, Stokes' team was down 2-0 but eventually tied it with a two-run double by Stokes. Sealing the game was Chris Shaw with a three-run home run. The winning team was awarded with a trophy and a share of the money that was raised.

"In all, I think the event was great in terms of raising money and everyone having fun," said Mercuri. "Everything went smoothly, and we will definitely do this again next year sometime around late May or early June."

"I would say it was definitely a successful day," added Strem. "Even the teams that didn't place told me they really enjoyed playing. We saw a lot of great pitchers and raised a lot of money for charity and to benefit causes for our community."

On Saturday, the Knights of Columbus held a fundraising wiffleball tournament which was a complete success. The 'Shaw Team' won the tournament and hold the trophy up in celebration. Fifth annual Wilmington Road Race

MacNeill takes top billing in half marathon

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO
Sports Correspondent

It took about an hour for Randy MacNeill to leave his Epping, New Hampshire home and drive to Wilmington, Mass to participate in the fifth annual road race. While it took him about an hour to drive, it only took him 1 hour, 20 minutes and 26 seconds to complete the 13 mile journey and capture the top place finish during Sunday's event.

MacNeill, 48, outlasted David Corbett of Stoneham by two minutes as 58 runners from various towns and states gathered together on the rainy morning to participate in the event, which once again saw nearly 200 combined runners help raise over $7,000 with all of the proceeds going to "TOPS Soccer", a program that helps physically challenged children.

MacNeill was asked about what drove him literally from all the way down from Epping, New Hampshire to the little town of Wilmington.

"This was a great road race and it was lots of fun," he said. "The half marathon was well-organized, and Wilmington is a very nice residential area to run in. I also liked how there was water stops at each intersection and the overall course itself."

The race began on Middlesex Street right in front of the RMA Fitness Center, and went along Rte. 62 with the runners taking a right onto High Street, before heading down the big hill hitting the Woburn Street School, before circling around Wildwood and the Glen Road Street areas and finishing back up in front of the RMA Fitness Center.

Race Director Laura Ahern has been a part of this traditonal event since its inaugural in 2005, along with the other two directors Tom Pazyra and Denise Gentile. Ahern said the road race was another great event this time around.

"The committee was very pleased with the day of the road race," she said. "We do this because we enjoy it and we love the town we live in. It's a small way to help out, but it goes a long way. The weather turned out to be perfect for the runners and the rain held out. We enjoyed the dedication of the runners and walkers that we see year after year supporting our event."

There were three different races, starting with a Kids Fun Run, and then a 5K and a half marathon. Wilmington resident Ken Warren was the winner of the 5K race coming in at 17:29 which was 21 seconds better than his brother-in-law Paul Hammuind of Lexington, who was second at 17:50. Rebecca Connolly was the first female finisher from Wilmington as she was fourth overall at 20:14. Behind her for the top locals included Ken Warren's son, Joe, a 17-year-old member of the WHS Boys Soccer team who was 7th at 21:33, as well as Anthony Larosa (9th, 22:25), Patrick MacCorkle (10th, 23:11), John Skinner (12th, 23:25), Paul Dwyer (15th, 23:55), Katy Goodwin (16th, 24:09), Lawrence Paoletti (18th, 24:51), Mark Goodwin (19th, 24:58) and Bob Mendelson (20th, 25:15) who all finished within the top 20 places out of the 58 total participants.

While Warren and Hammuind fought out the first place finish for family bragging rights, the half marathon race wasn't as close as MacNeill easily won it with Corbett, Bradford's Steven LeCours (1:26.55), Hopkinton's Christin Daneski (1:27.19) and Lowell's Andre Chandennet (1:28.01) finishing second through fifth, respectively. John Gorvin, who is no stranger to the local pavements, was the top finisher from Wilmington, finishing 12th overall at 1:35.15. He was followed by George Cronin (25th, 1:47.46), Kevin Yetman (28th, 1:51.20), Paula Knibbs (30th, 1:51.24), Roberta Cook (32nd, 1:52.15), Kathleen Stockman (33rd, 1:53.03), former outstanding WHS Cross Country runner John Gillis (35th, 1:53.57), David Proulx (36th, 1:53.58), Tony Ong (43rd, 2:03.02) and Kristin Thompson (45th, 2:05.55) to round out the top ten local finishers.

Certainly all of the runners, who went through either the tough five or 13 miles, with the off and on rain, all had smiles on their faces knowing their efforts will help put even a bigger smile on other people's faces - with all of the donations going directly to the TOPS Soccer program, started out by local resident Ed Celli. Ahern was thrilled knowing a handful of members from that program were on hand to watch such a fun filled weekend event.

"We loved the TOPS Soccer participants that came out with smiles on their faces ready to walk or run - rain or shine," said Ahern. "We loved all of our volunteers not complaining about anything, just ready and willing to do whatever is needed even if it meant cooking over 200 hot dogs."

For complete results of the half marathon and 5K races, please turn to page SP7W.

Race Directors say Thank You

There were many companies that sponsored the bank at this year's Wilmington Half Marathon/5K Road Race. The main sponsors of the race included Reading Co-Operative Bank, Realtor-Catherine Wilson, and Security Innovations. Also included for their generous donations are EF Shea New England Concrete, Unique Treasures, Attorney Robert Peterson, Wilmington Police Patrolman's Union, Advantage Sportswear and Por Shun, Inc.

"This year we were down for Company Sponsors, which we expected because of the economy, but we are hopeful we will maintain the sponsors we have and encourage new companies to get involved," said Ahern.

The race directors of the event would also like to thank Sue and Ed Coughlin, Tiffany Gentile, Tony Gentile, Jim Buckley, and Brendan Munro, who are the behind the scenes people that make this race so successful.

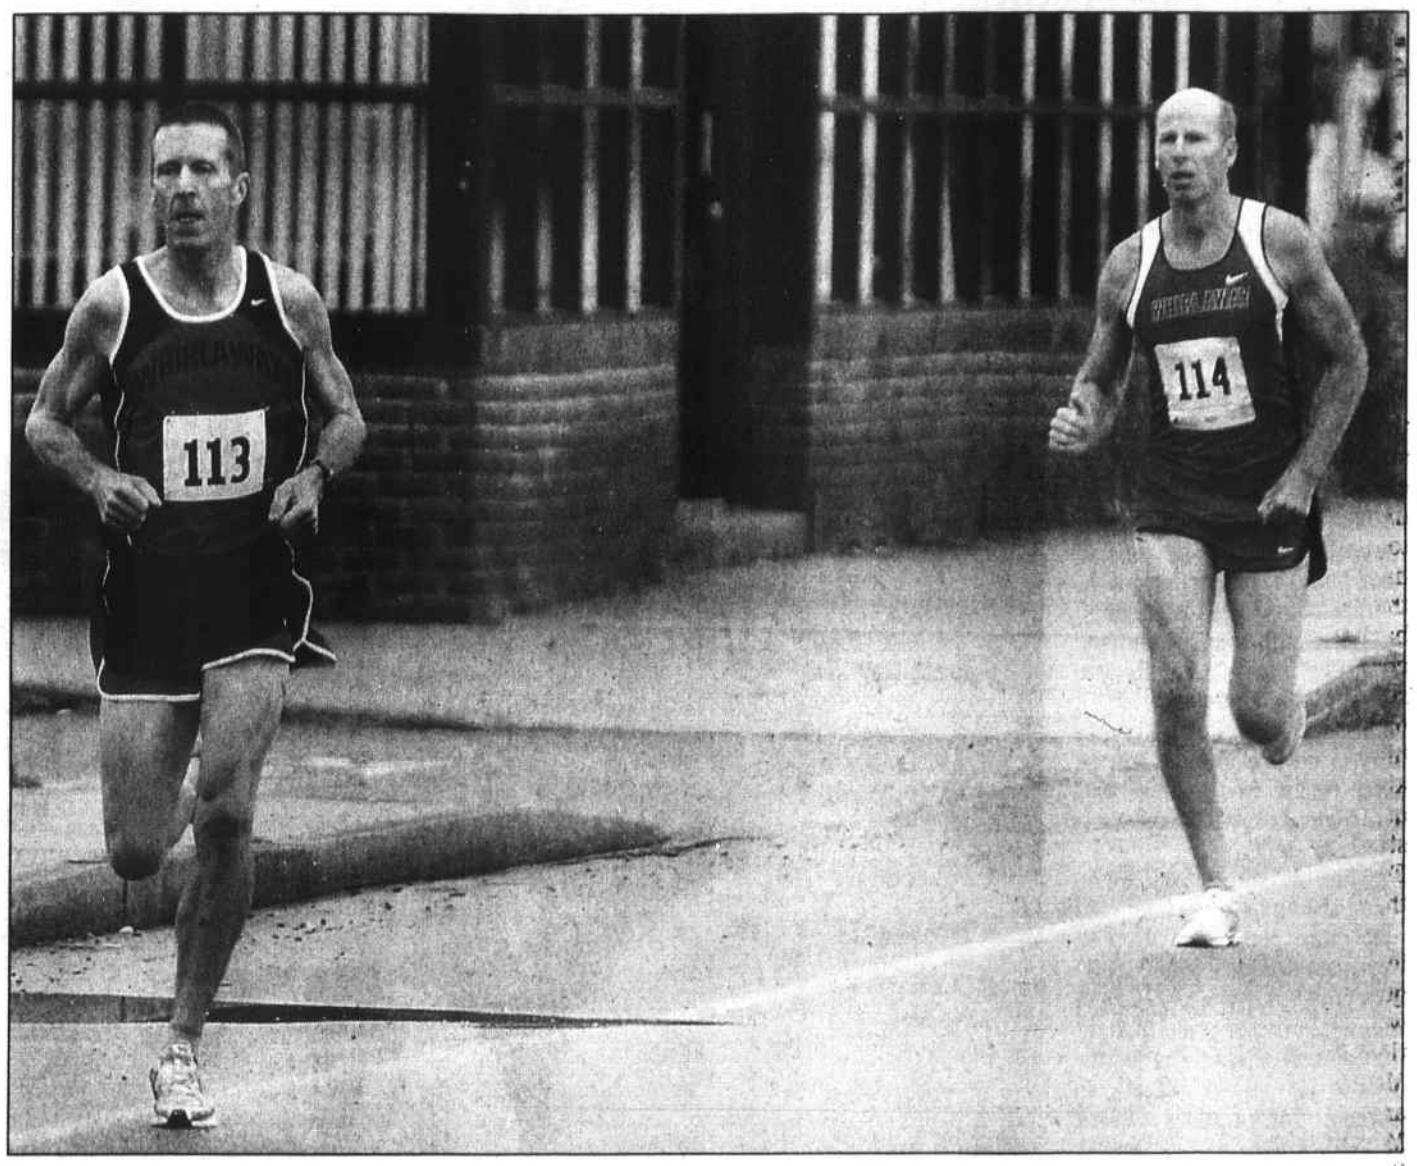

The committee would also like to thank the Wilmington Police Department and Chief Michael Begonis for his dedication and support. Also deserving appreciation are the other volunteers that come out the day of and help us with registration, water stops, and food.

"We would like this race to grow, it has the potential, we are in need of more 'local company' sponsors and we are asking for families to get involved," said Ahern. "It is a great opportunity to volunteer and feel good about giving back to your community.

"We are in our fifth year organizing this race; it's getting a little easier with our partners showing up every year ready and willing to help. This race would not have been successful without the donation and support of all the sponsors. The sponsors are all a huge part of the day and we couldn't have done it without them."

The race directors are eager to start fundraising for next year and are excited to hear from local Wilmington Companies that want to get involved. They would also like to hear ideas on how to advertise this race and get the word out to local running clubs, websites, and reach local people that want to participate.

Please contact Laura Ahern or Denise Gentile by emailing them at c.ahern@comcast.net or log onto the website at www.wilmingtonhalfmarathon.com with any ideas, suggestions or to make a comment.

Warren retains bragging rights by winning 5K race

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO
Sports Correspondent

Ken Warren, his son Joe, and Ken's brother-in-law Paul Hammuind, lined up for the start of the Wilmington 5K road race this past Sunday. Each one of them wanted to beat one other, as neither of the trio wanted to lose.

They all participated in the race to have a good time but they all wanted to leave with the family title. Running is in their genes, as they have been doing it for most of their lives.

Hammuind and Ken Warren have run in the Boston Marathon countless times, and both of them are preparing for several road races next month, including the Paddy's 5K Road Race on October 18th in West Newton.

Ken Warren was the winner of the inaugural Wilmington Half Marathon back in 2005 with a time of 1:19:06.1. Guess who was right behind him? Hammuind placed second with a time of 1:19:13.3.

Ken Warren and Hammuind have ran in the race periodically since, but were forced to sit out one year due to injuries. It was Joe's first race, who is currently a senior at Wilmington High School.

The 3.1 mile race was off, and Ken started ahead and took an early lead. Hammuind was right behind Ken with Joe, right behind both of them.

The race would end how it started, as Ken placed in first with a time of 17:29 and Hammuind with a time of 17:50. Joe, 17, took seventh overall with a time of 21:33.

Ken Warren, 47, and Joe, 17, who both live in Wilmington, and Hammuind, 49, who resides in Lexington, all had a blast in the race, as they all enjoyed competing with one another for a good time.

"Running in the 5K road race was great," said Ken. "It was for a good cause and we all enjoyed running it."

Joe, a member of the soccer and track teams at WHS, said running in the race was for an excellent cause.

"I ran for the TOPS Soccer Program and it was lots of fun," said Joe, who participates on the soccer and track teams at Wilmington High School.

Joe's brother in-law, Paul, said he also had a tremendous time in the race and that it was a joy to participate.

"The race was a great time other than the fact that Ken beat me," said Hammuind jokingly.

Expect all the three runners to come back next year and participate in the annual road race. Maybe even Hammuind or Joe will be able to chase after Ken for the win.

Moriarty Brothers and company, step up in moment of need

Wilmington High junior quarterback Sean Hanley gets sacked by Shawsheen Tech's Ryan Cassidy during the team's non-league game played in Week Two.

When senior tri-captain Evan Butters was standing on the sidelines without his shoulder pads on, it was clearly evident that he was injured and was not returning to the game when the second half resumed. So now without the team's starting running back and safety – who has a combined 415 rushing and receiving yards with six touchdowns, to go along with his game opening 88-yard kick-off return score – the question remained who would step up for the Wildcat Football team? The answer – the entire team.

Leading 14-7 against a physical Lynnfield team, junior quarterback Sean Hanley as well as the brother combination of junior back Kevin Moriarty and senior captain and two-way lineman John Moriarty, led the way for the Wildcats in the absence of Butters to come away with a 28-7 victory before the home crowd played Friday night at Alumni Stadium.

Hanley, playing with a severe charley horse, completed 6-of-9 passes for 125 yards which included touchdown strikes to Brian Hurley and Chris Frissore. Kevin Moriarty ended the night with 105 rushing yards on 16 caries with a touchdown, while his older brother John recovered two Lynnfield fumbles, both setting up Wildcat touchdowns.

"We had a great week of practice and we just practiced really hard," said second-year head coach Mike Barry. "Like I told the kids, when you leave (the program as players) you're not going to remember the games, but you'll remember the season and your teammates. Evan (Butters) is a great player but we have other great players. Sean Hanley stepped up and made some great throws, especially that one to Brian Hurley and then the other one down there on the goal line and the other kids also ran real hard. We had some young guys in there because of some injuries, and we had so many kids step up and play well, so it's just not Evan."

It was all Evan Butters in the first 18 seconds of the game. He took a bouncing kick-off at the Wildcat 12 yard line, and as soon as picked up the ball, he hit the quick seam and was gone through the middle of the Lynnfield defense and off to the end zone, returning the game's opening kick-off 88 yards for the touchdown. Chris Frissore, who was another player who really stepped it up, booted his first of four PAT kicks making it a quick 7-0 lead.

That quick lead became even bigger just 3:15 later. On Lynnfield's first play from scrimmage, Wildcat tri-captain Denis Gingras nailed quarterback Gino Cohee and the ball popped loose and was recovered by John Moriarty. Six plays later, facing third-and-one, Hanley took three steps back and found a wide open Brian Hurley in the end zone for a 16-yard touchdown strike making it 14-0 just 3:33 into the game.

Lynnfield strung together a long successful drive moving the ball to the Wildcat 39, but turned the ball over on an incomplete pass coming on fourth-and-six. Three plays later the Pioneers got the ball back after the first of three lost fumbles by the Wildcats. That gave Lynnfield the ball back on the 39 yard line with 1:15 left in the first quarter. Seven plays later, Lynnfield got on the scoreboard as Cohee went up the middle on an 11-yard run, and the conversion kick was good and the lead was cut in half at 14-7.

Wilmington had chances to expand on its lead before the halftime break but Hanley was sacked on fourth down at the Lynnfield 20, and then the Wildcats fumbled again just inside midfield with under three minutes to go. Neither team could get much going on a final drive of the half, and the Wildcats had the 14-7 lead.

"We went into halftime and we said 'guys we have a game and this is a game, and don't back away go get it because this is fun'. The kids made it fun and they got after it," said Barry.

Without Butters, the third quarter started out very sloppy for Wilmington - well both teams actually. The teams exchanged turnovers, with Hanley coming up with his own interception on a Cohee pass, but after punting the ball, the Wildcats got the ball back two plays later when John Moriarty pounced on his second fumble recovery. That put the ball on the Lynnfield 33. From there it took just 2:12 before the Wildcats found the end zone again with Hanley completing a 9-yard pass to Frissore, pushing the lead to two scores at 21-7.

Amazingly, through three games, Hanley has completed 71 percent of his passes, 20-for-28, for 345 yards with five touchdowns and just one interception.

After Lynnfield turned the ball over again on downs, Wilmington took over on its own 41 with 2:26 to go in the third. Kevin Moriarty took all but one carry in the drive for a combined 19 yards, including his 7 yard touchdown run which was set up by a 40-yard pass from Hanley to Hurley. Moriarty's score and Frissore's kick made it 28-7 on the final play of the third quarter and that's how the game's scoring ended.

"Kevin (Moriarty) was a good player for us last year and he saw a lot of time and he plays fullback and tailback for us and when he's on, he's on," said Barry. "And John (Moriarty) has been a great leader all season. You don't see it a lot but in the locker room and on the sidelines, he's a very quiet kid. On the field he just has that quiet confidence about him and he's just a great leader. And so are the other captains, Denis (Gingras) and Evan."

Wilmington ended up with 298 total yards of offense against Lynnfield, which came in with 70 combined points over its first two wins against Matignon and Georgetown.

"That was a good team over there," said Barry. "I think Lynnfield is one of the better Cape Ann League teams, and they scored 70 points over the last two weeks. They have some big athletic kids over there. Our kids came to play and take away a couple of mental lapses, and I thought our kids played very well especially on the defensive side of the ball.

"When I think about this win, I think about how we won it Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at practice. We had a real good week of practice and the kids really responded because we made a lot of mental mistakes in the Shawsheen Tech game. I think we cleaned up some of those, but when you have those (Lynnfield) kids coming in on a blitz, it seems like a lot more. So if you ask me, I'm pretty proud right now."

Wilmington's next two games are on the road on Saturday afternoon with a trip to Lexington this Saturday for a non-league game, followed by a 2:30 game against Hamilton-Wenham on October 10th.

Lady 'Cats get stung before taming the Tigers

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Facing a perennial league and state contender who came into the game unbeaten, and who came into the game featuring four of the top five goal scorers in the Cape Ann League, seemed like an impossible task to take on.

However, although the score indicates that the Wilmington High School Field Hockey team was outclassed by the Manchester-Essex Hornets, that was hardly the case. The Hornets struck for two goals in the first half and one in the second half to come away with a 3-0 win over the Wildcats played last Thursday afternoon at Alumni Field. However, Wilmington did have a few scoring chances and did possess the ball inside the ME end on a number of occasions throughout the 60 minutes of play.

"We expected them to be the better team, however, after the first half I thought we were right up there with them, until they made it 2-0," said head coach Jodi MacKenzie. "The things they have that we don't include stick-to-ball coordination. We're more of a let's get it up the field kind of team, but they are a team that makes moves when they go up the field. When you make moves and you keep the ball on your stick, you are able to do more things with each other. It's a much better game when you do that - they were all about give-and-gos and it worked for them."

Just two minutes into the game, Manchester-Essex got on the scoreboard. Starting from a corner, Amelia Cohen took the ball and passed it to her left to teammate Amelia Burke, who slid the ball to the back of the net for what proved to be the game winning tally.

The score remained 1-0 and the Wildcats almost tied it up midway through the first half. Applying good offensive pressure, the ball was sent around deep in the Manchester end. Wildcat sophomore Ryanne Newhouse put on a real solid shot that was kicked out, and the rebound went out to Danielle Sugrue but her shot rolled right through the crease.

With under ten minutes to go in the half, Wildcat goalie Nicole Luz came up with three huge saves, the first coming on a sensational blocker stop, and the second coming with two kick out saves, including the latter while she was on the ground, all to keep it a one-goal game. But with just a few minutes left in the first half, Manchester-Essex made it 2-0 as Burke gave a pass up to Kyle Marsh, whose shot went into the top right hand corner for a much needed insurance goal.

Manchester-Essex added one goal in the second half to close out the scoring and the game at 3-0.

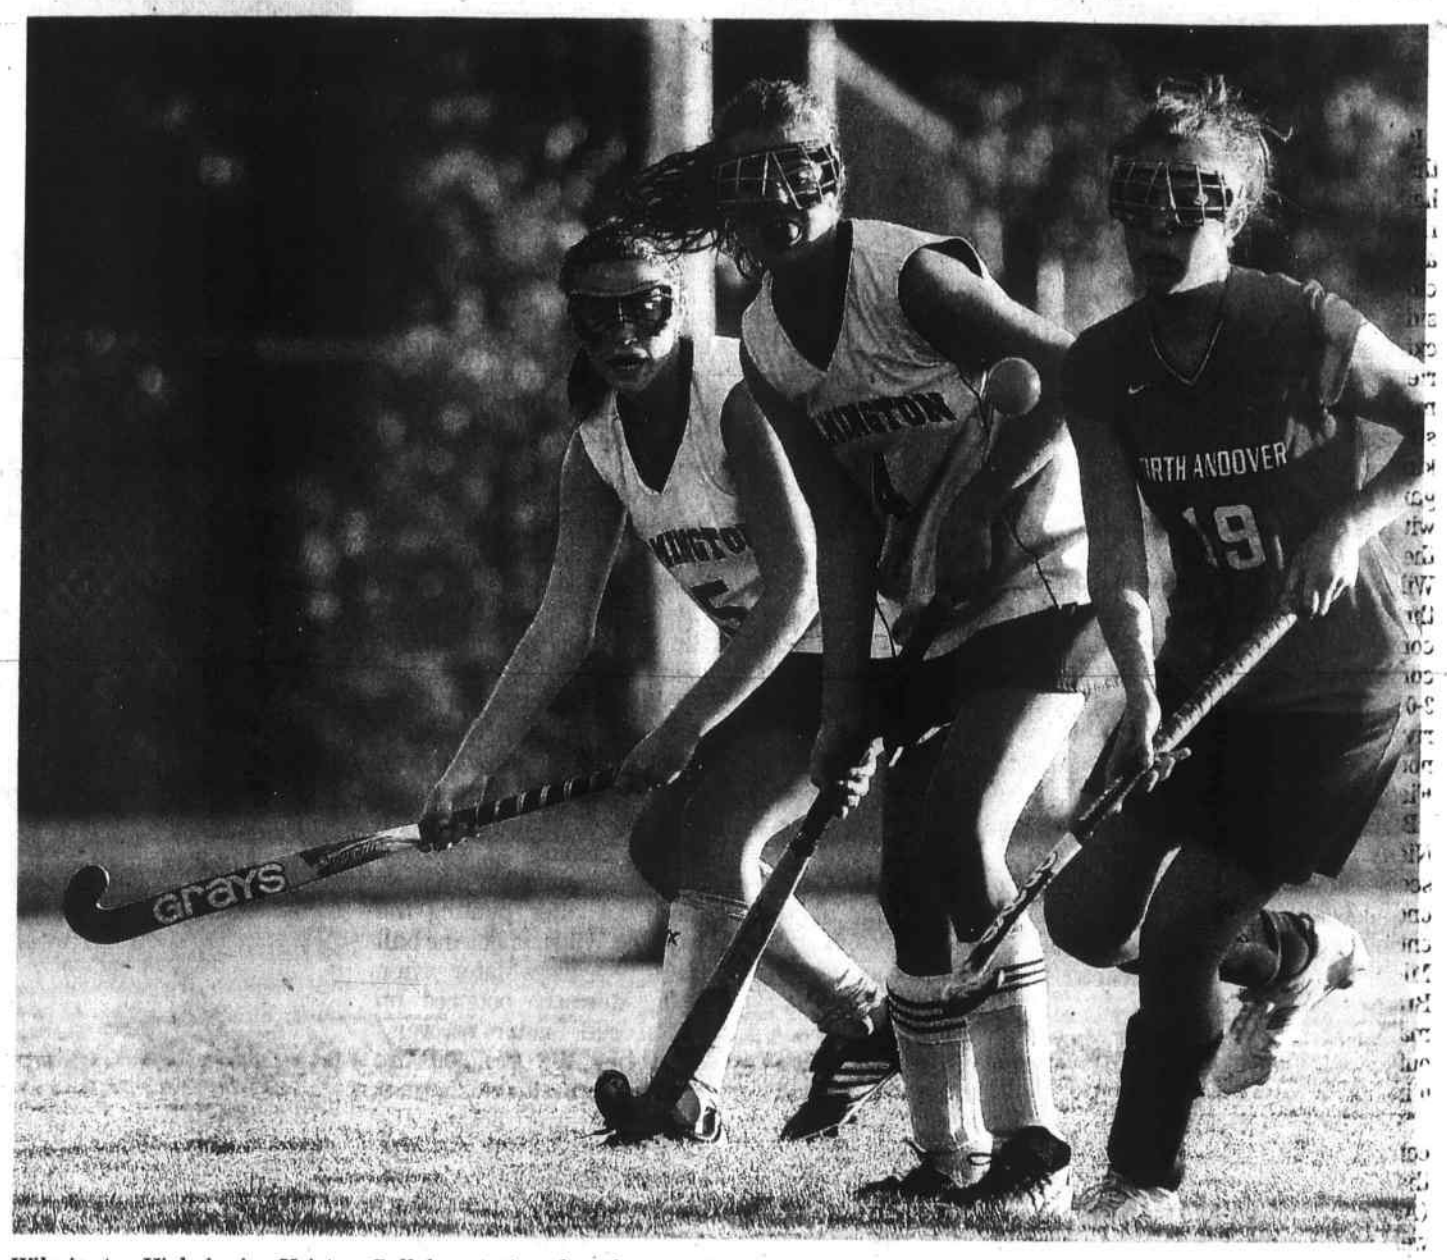

"I think we were right there with them," said MacKenzie. "I think we have different types of skills. I think we're a better team in the circles, but they just have those girls who finish at the net."

With the loss, Wilmington fell to 3-2-1, after starting out 3-0-1.

"Unfortunately this was a tough week for us," said MacKenzie. "We faced the top two teams in the league and I think it brought the girls confidence and morale down knowing (before we played North Andover and Manchester-Essex) that we couldn't play with them, but once we did face them, I think or I hope the girls realize that they can play with these top teams because they did."

On Tuesday afternoon, Wilmington got back on the winning track with a 4-1 victory over Ipswich to improve to 4-2-1, which is already better than last year's three win season. Danielle Sugrue led the offense with two goals, while, Sam Palermo and Liz Crannell had one goal each. Crannell also added an assist. Goalie Nicole Luz made 15 saves, as Ipswich had many chances from within the circle to score but were denied by Luz and the rest of the Wildcats defense.

Wilmington is now extremely busy with five games in the next eight days, including the first four on the road. Wilmington will make stops to Georgetown (2-3-2) on Thursday, Rockport (1-3-2) on Saturday morning at 10:00, Lynnfield (5-1-1) on Monday and Hamilton-Wenham (2-3-1) on Wednesday, before coming back home to face the winless North Reading Hornets (0-4-3) on Thursday.

WHS Cross Country

Both the Wilmington High School boys and girls cross country teams fell to 2-3 on the season after their tri-meet held last Wednesday. The boys team was defeated by both Hamilton-Wenham, 19-42, and Lynnfield, 26-30, to go to 2-3, and the girls defeated Lynnfield 23-33 but fell to a very good Hamilton-Wenham squad, 22-37.

On the girls side, the trio of Sydnee Russo, Amy Fisher and Nikki Sirignano finished in order to take first, second and third to "seal the deal" against Lynnfield, and finished fourth, fifth and seventh, respectively against the Generals.

"Amy was the big, pleasant surprise (for us)," said head coach Tom Bradley. "With her best effort (of the season) by far finishing at 22:03, a personal record by 1:36."

Jessica Burke, Michelle Barnes, Rachel Alatalo and Cali Peffer rounded out Wilmington's next four finishers.

Turning to the boys side, freshman Stephen Halas was the team's first runner to come across the line doing so at the 18:11 mark. Zack Sears was second at 18:17, coming just six seconds behind to take second and third against Lynnfield but fourth and fifth against Hamilton-Wenham. Jake Russo continues to improve as he finished third for Wilmington at 18:37, followed by Tom Valente (19:17), John Weber (19:50), Ryan Kennedy and Sean Keane.

On Saturday morning, both the boys and the girls teams participated in the annual Battle of the Border Invitational held at Tewksbury's Livingston Street Field complex. On the girls side, the Wildcats finished fifth with 85 points, with Lowell (57), Alvirne, NH (64), Tewksbury (67) and Central Catholic (79) finishing ahead, and Tyngsboro finishing last with 145 points. Sydnee Russo was the top performer for the Wildcats as she finished 9th overall at 20:39, while Amy Fisher was 14th at 21:27 as both of them finished with a meet ribbon.

On the boys side, Wilmington finished with 106 points, behind Lowell (15), Tewksbury (54) and Tyngsboro (79). Jake Russo was the team's top finisher coming in 14th overall at 18:54, as he also received a ribbon.

On the JV level, Hannah Kelly, Jen Collins and Keara Mac Corkel ribboned for the girls team, while on the freshmen side, Nicole Romanzo, Katelyn Richardson, Alexandra Polcaris and Rachel Donahue all received ribbons, while, Stephen Halas won the freshmen boys race and Ryan Hall received a ribbon.

WHS Boys Soccer

The Wildcat boys' soccer team played just one game this past week, coming from behind to tie Rockport, 1-1, last Thursday night. Trailing 1-0 in the final minute of the game, senior Mike Murphy sent a cross pass to Liam Gately, who headed it home to help keep the Wildcats unbeaten at 3-0-1.

Senior keeper Marty Bamberg made seven stops in the net, while, Jimmy Marra, Kevin Flaherty and Caleb Rogers all played well for the Wildcats according to head coach Steve Scanlon.

Wilmington will now have four games in the next eight days. The Wildcats faced Manchester-Essex at home on Wednesday afternoon with results not known as of presstime. After that the Wildcats go on the road for their next three with stops to Ipswich (0-4-2) on Friday, Newburyport (5-1-0) on Tuesday and North Andover (5-1-0) next Thursday.

The Wilmington High golf team had hit a bit of a rough patch the last couple of weeks after their impressive 2-0 start to the season, dropping three straight matches heading into play last week. But the Wildcats seem to have righted their ship this past week, going 2-0 with a pair of impressive victories over Rockport last Tuesday and Amesbury last Thursday to improve their overall record on the season to 4-3.

"After starting 2-0 and then losing three straight, lat week was very important for us if we want to qualify for the post season," Wildcats coach Steve Lynch said. "We had started the week saying that if we won two it would certainly make it a little easier for us so these were huge wins for us."

The Wildcats got the week off to a great start last Tuesday with a 154-118 home victory over Rockport, getting a team high 31 point from junior Andrew Spurr, while senior captain Nick Boutoures matched his 31 and senior Aubrey Ungvarsky tallied 27 points.

"The three of them have all been playing very well," Lynch said. "We expect them to and they have been coming through for us."

Junior Adam Martiniello added 25 points to help seal the victory.

For Lynch while the victory was somewhat expected again a rebuilding Rockport, the aspect that stood out most to him was his team compiling 154 points to pick up the win. That is a point total that will allow the Wildcats to compete in, if not win, almost any match on their schedule.

"We have been in Rockport's shoes the past couple of years where they have fallen on some hard times. We have no right to be overconfident, but I felt we should win this one," Lynch said. "The win was great, but more important than that were the scores. Our top four scored very well and that was great to see."

The Wildcats followed up their impressive showing on Tuesday with a victory on the road Thursday at Amesbury by a score of 127-117. Unlike the win over Rockport, Lynch was not as impressed with his team's scoring, but he was still pleased to pull out the win.

"Neither team played very well. It was not a real pretty match," Lynch said. "But it was a road win and that was big for us because it put us in better position for the post season."

Boutoures led the way for the Wildcats with 24 points, while Spurr Ungvarsky and Tyler Strem each scored 21. Sophomore Dalton Rowley continued his impressive play of late with 22 points.

"Dalton can really crush the ball," Lynch said. "This is a tough lineup to crack right now because our top seven are really etched in stone and we really only have one spot available, but Dalton has played well enough to grab that spot."

At 4-3 halfway through the season, Lynch is happy with where his team sits. While like any coach he would like to have another victory or two under his belt, he is confident in his team's abilities headed into the second half.

"I think we are positioned pretty well," Lynch said. "We still have some pretty tough opponents in our next few matches like Masco and North Andover, but I think we also have some opponents that we can match up pretty well with."

"I told our kids at the start of last week that we are a good team and we just have not shown consistency," Lynch added. "We were consistent last week. I want to see that continue."

Girls squad scores two wins

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

It was a tale of two teams in the opposite direction. On one hand is Wilmington, an experienced team that can generate offense but has trouble closing the deal. On the other side is Tewksbury, an extremely young and inexperienced team that struggles maintaining possession, and struggles to generate any kind of offense. So when the game was tied at halftime with Wilmington controlling the entire game, it was the Wildcats who finally broke through in the second half converting on three goals to come away with a convincing 3-0 win over its nonleague rival played Monday afternoon at Tewksbury's Strong Field.

Brittney McLaughlin, Holly Niemiec and Kaitlyn Souza scored single goals in the second half, all set up by different players, Jackie Zaremba, Michelle Parece and Julie Braid to help the Wildcats make it two wins a row, while outscoring their opponents 9-0 in that stretch.

"We played well in terms of controlling the play, but it's that (lack of a killer instinct). (Against) North Reading we went through the same thing where we had many scoring opportunities and not finishing. We have been working on that a lot. So I guess if you have nice kids, it's a tough thing to teach," said Wildcat head coach Sue Hendee with a laugh. "I'm pleased with the way the girls controlled play of the game in the first half, but it's got to be more than that. It's got to be more than dominating play and it's got to be you have to finish."

After not putting any legitimate shot on net in the first 40 minutes, Wilmington put plenty on net in the second half getting contributions from a handful of different layers, younger, older as well as getting a goal coming from keeper Jackie Zaremba's punt.

"It's great to start finally scoring goals and it's great that we're scoring goals from a whole bunch of different people," said Hendee. "Against Rockport we had five goals with four different people assisting and today it was a bunch of different people."

With the win, Wilmington is now 2-3-2 overall, while Tewksbury falls to 1-5-1, including dropping four games in a row including scoring just one goal in its last 320 minutes of play.

"We are young," said Redmen head coach Jack O'Brien. "We got great leadership. Melissa (Schikles) and Kerri (Stuart) are doing a great job as captains of having this team come together. We are a young team. We have three freshmen contribute considerably, and then we have five girls who are on the varsity for the first time and four more girls who are on their second year as varsity players. The girls have been playing really well."

O'Brien was particularly pleased with the team's defensive effort against Wilmington.

"The strength of our team is our defense," he said. "That's our style being aggressive and being physical and playing through the ball and that's Tewksbury's style of soccer and it's significant to play in a very tough Merrimack Valley Conference because when we play teams from the Cape Ann League, it's a different style of game compared to the MVC and Sue (Hendee) would say the same thing. It's just a different style."

Wilmington's style was too much for Tewksbury. The Wildcats made great give-and-go passes, made alert heads up passes to open space, open lanes and to the middle of the field which generated all kinds of offensive chances.

After Tewksbury put its second shot on net, where Zaremba (3 saves) stretched out to make a catch, she punted the ball to almost midfield. The ball then got on the foot of senior striker McLaughlin, who split two Redmen defenders before going in alone and scoring with a soft touch to the low left hand corner making it 1-0.

Wilmington made it 2-0 as Parece sent a corner kick to the left of keeper Rebecca Davies (11 saves), which landed on the head and then into the back of the net by freshman Holly Niemiec, who was planted on the back side of the post. Then with three minutes left in the game, Braid fed Souza, who sent a shot to the low far corner for the final goal of the game.

That was more than enough for the Wildcat defensive unit to come away with its second straight shut out, led by senior Danielle Polcari.

"The (defenders) are playing smart," said Hendee. "They look to attack which is what I really like and Danielle Polcari is doing an excellent job of that coming from the back. It is kind of hard in games (where we dominate) to remain focused because they are thinking attack when the ball is in their end, but the kids sometimes lose focus. But Danielle is playing great, Taylor (Shelton) has been playing very well after being out for several weeks."

On Thursday, Wilmington defeated Rockport, 5-0. Braid, McLaughlin, Souza, Erin Cowden and Jackie Kennedy each had a goal.

The Wilmington High School Girls Varsity Soccer team has picked up two straight wins this past week defeating Rockport and Tewksbury. The team which currently has a record of 2-3-2, are led by its 12 seniors including: back row from left - Ashley Gonzalez, Allison Bleier, Bryanne Mara and Michelle Parece; middle row from left - Julie Braid, Jackie Zaremba, Katelyn Hayes and Danielle Polcari; and front row from left - Kaitlyn Souza, Brittney McLaughlin, Kellyn Campbell and Allison Robbins. Volleyball team conducting fundraiser

The Wilmington High girls volleyball program, led by head coach Mark Staffier is conducting a fundraiser in order to raise money for breast cancer awareness. Beginning in September and continuing through the month of October (Breast Cancer Awareness Month) the team will be selling Wilmington Dig Pink t-shirts and taking donations to contribute to the Side-Out Foundation. If you are interested in purchasing a t-shirt you may also attend one of the Wilmington Volleyball Dig Pink Matches (October 5th and October 29th at 4:00pm in the WHS gym) to purchase a t-shirt. The team wishes to thank you for your support and will gladly accept any donations to support their cause.

Dig Pink is a National Breast Cancer awareness rally that is taking place throughout the month of October 2009. Wilmington High is not alone in their crusades, as high schools and colleges around the country are hosting Dig Pink matches to help educate and raise funds to help fight breast cancer. Wear something PINK and show your support.

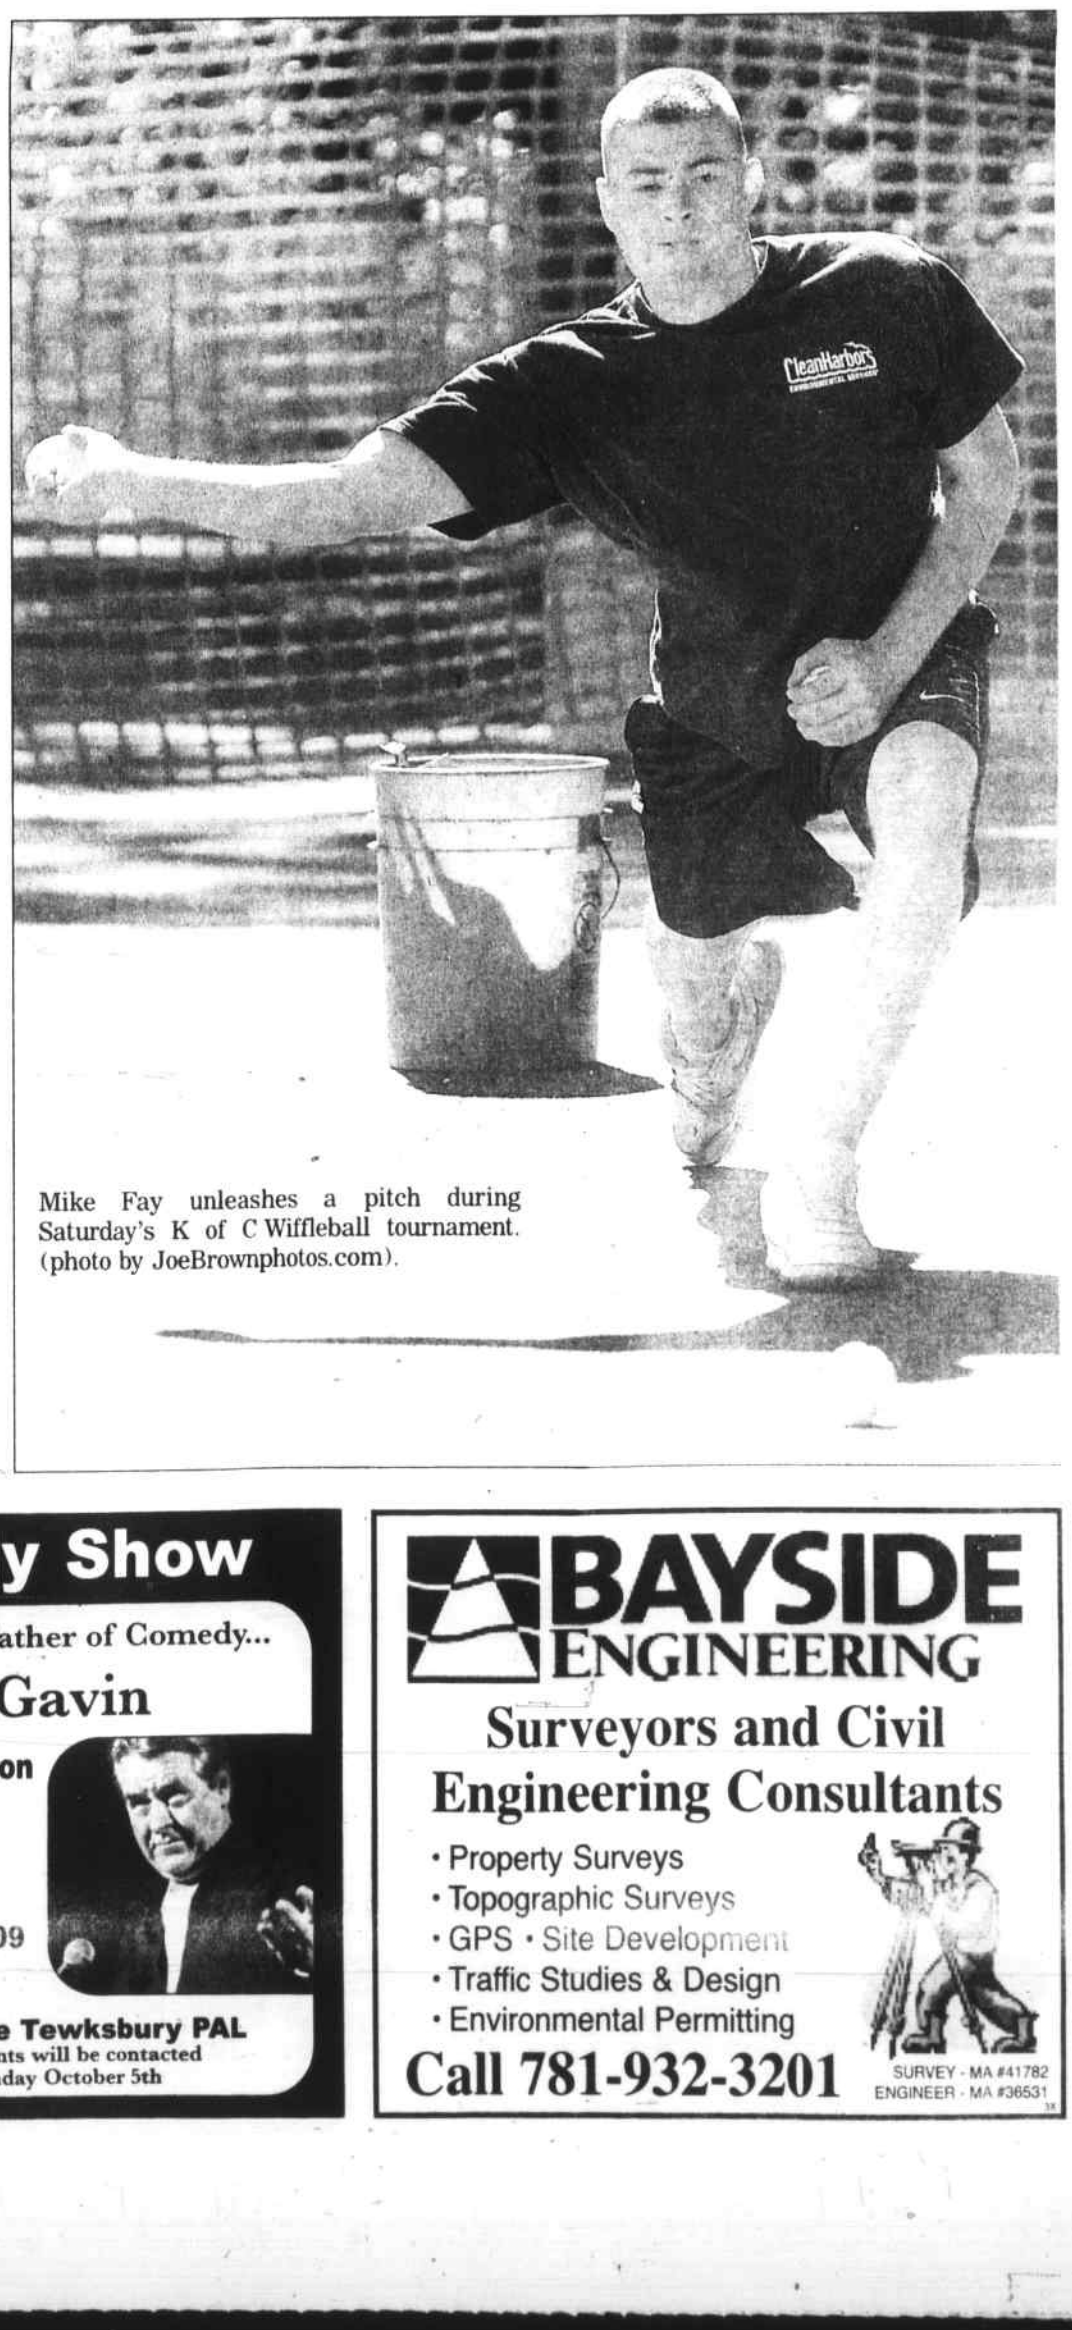

And donations received by the Wildcats will go to the Side-Out Foundation.

The Side-Out Foundation (Side-Out) was established in 2004 by a group of individuals drawn together by their love of volleyball, but who also share a similar passion to be a part of the war against breast cancer. Side-Out's mission is to raise money for the war against breast cancer through the recreational activity of volleyball.

Refurbished gymnasium sparkles with Wildcat Pride

By: Rick Cooke

The place sparkles and shines like a freshly buffed-up pair of new shoes on Easter Sunday. There is a blue gleam about a gymnasium that was hardly beat-up to begin with. Hundreds of Wilmington High School student-athletes now really have a place to play that screams Wildcat Pride-Big Blue and all that good stuff that makes playing a game or going to a routine physical education class really something that the entire WHS' student body can boast about. It all began with a busted sprinkler head and some work on the fly.

"It was near the end of winter or the beginning of spring, I can't remember the exact date, but we had a sprinkler head give way near the far end of the gym near the entrance to the locker rooms," says Wilmington High School Director of Athletics Ed Harrison. "Water was coming out like Niagara Falls for about forty-five minutes, and we couldn't get it to shut off. The water was just everywhere. It got underneath the floor until it finally buckled that far corner of the gym."

Then the insurance coverage kicked in, but not before Harrison looked to Wilmington's Public Buildings Department and Superintendent George Hooper to help put the proverbial cherry on top of this unexpected sports' sundae.

"It was an insurance job at first. We ripped out the floor at that end of the gym and had to replace it with new hardwood. Then we had to sand the entire floor," said Harrison as he gave a proud-as-a-new-papa tour of the place. "We changed a few of the colors and put down some new lines. It came out beautiful. It's great for the kids coming in to a gym class. There were sections of the gym that were kind of dark. It's so nice and bright now."

Let there be some light to go with that new gymnasium floor. Enter Mr. Hooper and his department's help so everyone could get a good look at that final glossy coat. Let's just say that some people stepped up and finished a nice job for the young people, their parents, fans and coaches.

"New lines were put down for the courts and the play area, then several coats of finish, so it looks like a new floor," says Hooper. Now, here's where that extra time and effort comes in.

"Our public buildings department worked with the school department and the RMLD, which offers an energy efficient program to replace the existing one-thousand watt mercury vapor lighting system with new, energy-efficient T-5 fluorescent lights. This system improves the light quality and doubles the light input. This brings the light levels up to the appropriate standard for the gymnasium and will save the town $6,000 annually. The Wilmington Public Buildings Department is working with the Reading Municipal Light Department through a program to increase the energy efficiency in all of our schools and town buildings."

The bleachers are still Wildcat Blue and are the same stands the fans have come to recognize for the lack of give and take when it comes to sitting through any game. They are hard and they are now just a bit older than the rest of the place. But, they will be the next to be replaced when the next WHS' project finally takes off.

Even when that new Wilmington High School is built, or the existing building is renovated, this gymnasium is here to stay. And, don't you dare take to that new floor minus some sneakers, or if you're a non-player, some new white socks and a head-on-a swivel. When Harrison patrols his school's new gym digs when the annual Christmas Basketball Tourney rolls around, take note- the veteran AD with the mustache and near-perfect eyesight will be watching you. Have pride, but take care. This new floor was meant to infuse some enthusiasm with an eye toward a very bright future for Wilmington High School sports.

"There are some other things that we need to work on, but it is definitely an improvement," says Harrison. The place was nice to begin with, compared to some other gymnasiums where Wilmington High School plays its' games. Now, it's spectacular. Look closely at that floor and you can see a reflection that says all you need to know about Wilmington High School pride. A town that recovers this quickly from an untimely accident really has something to boast about. "We got a whole new gym out of this thing. It's fantastic," says Harrison.

It sure is.

A spirited comeback attempt late in the game by the Wilmington Pop Warner Pee Wee 1 team fell short last Sunday in a 13-8 loss at Waltham.

Waltham was leading 13-0 with the ball in the fourth quarter when the Wildcats made their sixth fumble recovery of the season. Scott Newton fell on the pigskin at the Wilmington 32-yard line. When the offense took over, Charlie Minghella broke through the line and showed his break-away speed on a 68-yard touchdown run. Connor Robinson kicked the two-point conversion to make the score 13-8.

With little time remaining, Robinson then executed a perfect on-side kick that bounced off a Waltham player and was recovered by Newton near midfield. However, a Wildcat pass was intercepted and Waltham earned the victory.

Just like last week against Woburn, the Wildcats recovered a Waltham fumble deep in Wilmington territory on the opponent's opening drive of the game. Newton got it at the three-yard line. Tyler DeJesus had first down runs for Wilmington's offense, but penalties stalled their first drive and the Wildcats had to punt.

Waltham got the ball in great field position, but the Wildcat defense forced another turnover. With Waltham first and goal on the one-yard line, Chance Harper recovered a fumble to keep them out of the end zone as the first quarter ended.

Newton broke a 23-yard run early in the second quarter, but Wilmington fumbled the ball on the 33-yard line and Waltham had a good scoring opportunity again. However, the Wilmington defense, led by tackles from Robinson and linebacker Zach Ahlin, stopped Waltham on fourth down at the 11-yard line.

The Wildcats weren't able to move the ball on their next possession and Waltham took over at the Wilmington 10-yard line. This time, the Devil Dogs took advantage of the field position and scored on a five-yard run. A successful conversion run made it 7-0 Waltham at the half.

The Wildcat defense continued to do a good job in the second half. Mike Stanford, Robert Peterson, Sean Devlin and Sam Jennings were among the group that got the ball back for the Wilmington offense at their own 25-yard line.

However, as the third quarter ended, Waltham got the ball back at Wilmington 28-yard line. Five plays later, they were in the end zone after a three-yard touchdown run. The conversion attempt failed and it was 13-0.

Minghella had a 12-yard run on the next Wilmington possession when they moved to the Waltham 37 before turning the ball over on downs. Newton's second fumble recovery of the game on the next Waltham drive set up the exciting finish that left the Wildcats just shy of victory.

Other Wildcats contributing at Waltham were Nick Ford, Tommy Robarge, Matt Hersom, Graham Smith, Anthony Celata, Bryan Domek, Danny Woods, Mike Feyler, Brendan Daly, Jack Sweeney, Connor MacKenzie, Justin Fraser, Richie Ellen and Brandon Belmonte.

Now 1-2 overall, the 'Cats play Reading at home next Sunday.

E1 Wildcats

Wilmington's E1 Pop Warner Football Team continues their excellent season last week against Waltham. Starting co-captains were Zachary Kincaid and Christian Robarge. Losing the toss, kicker Connor Rooney opened the game.

Wilmington's defense came out ready to play. This hard hitting defense recovered the ball quickly and this team never looked back. David Fraser did a great job as center consistently snapping the ball to quarterback Andrew Sullivan. Sullivan gave several perfect pitches to Cameron Martin who had three touch-

Mike Fitzgerald did his best Larry Fitzgerald impression last week for the MIT football team, as he had a monster game in a 31-19 loss to Nichols College.

Fitzgerald, a senior wide receiver from Wilmington, had seven catches for 137 yards in Saturday's loss. His longest catch was 37 yards and four catches of 25 yards or more.

Wilmington resident Mike Fitzgerald, a wide receiver for the MIT Football team.

Fitzgerald leads the team in receiving yards through three games with 186. His 12 catches are second on the team. The Engineers are still looking for their first victory. Their next game is at home on Saturday against UMass Dartmouth.

Four local runners were busy on Saturday for the UMass Lowell girls' cross-country team as they all competed in the Williams College Purple Valley Classic Mixed 5K Run at Mount Greylock H.S.

The River Hawks won the 5K race with the help of three local girls. Freshman Nicole Skotz of Tewksbury finished in sixth place with a time of 20:41. Fellow freshman Colleen Kennedy of Wilmington finished in ninth place with a time of 20:46. Jennifer Carr, a sophomore from Tewksbury, ran a time of 21:06 and placed 12th.

Tewksbury's Sarah Bonomo competed for the River Hawks in the 6K race. The junior from Tewksbury finished in 36th place with a time of 24:02. The team travels to Keene State on Saturday for the "Keene State College Invitational."

Fitchburg State named Paula Bartalamia a "Soaring Falcon" last week for her performance in a 2-0 win for the field hockey team over Worcester State. The senior from Tewksbury netted both her team's goals in the win.

Bartalamia has led the Fitchburg State offense this season by posting a team-high 15 points on seven goals and one assist. The senior captain has totaled two game-winning goals while posting a perfect 1.000 shots on goal percentage.

The Falcons (5-2) will be in action again on Wednesday as they travel to UMass Dartmouth.

Sammy Macy had another solid game and the UMass Lowell field hockey notched another victory on Saturday against Assumption 6-1. The Tewksbury junior forward had a goal and an assist for the No. 5 River Hawks.

Macy still leads the team in most offensive categories, including goals (11), assists (5), points (27), shots (72) and shots on goal (46).

The River Hawks sport a record of 10-1-0 and are undefeated both at home and in conference. They travel to Southern Connecticut on Saturday.

Two local football players put in good efforts WPI on Saturday, but it wasn't enough as the Engineers lost their first game of the season 42-33 to RPI. RPI won the coveted Transit Trophy, awarded annually to the WPI-RPI winner, for the 13th consecutive year.

Wilmington running back Ernie Mello led the team with 14 rushes for 80 yards. He also had a catch for four yards, and returned four kick-offs for 88 yards. He leads the team with 206 rushing yards and also leads the team with four touchdowns.

Tewksbury's Adam Power, a junior defensive back, had six solo tackles in the loss. He has 19 tackles on the year, good enough for fourth on the team. The Engineers to Union on Saturday in a Liberty League game.

Vinny Papageorgiou has continued his good play from last year as a goalkeeper on the Franklin Pierce soccer team. He had a monster game on Saturday as they defeated Merrimack 2-1. Papageorgiou had 12 saves to earn the win.

Papageorgiou has been splitting time with another goalkeeper this year. He has 25 saves and a save percentage of .833.

Last year he was named the Northeast-10 Conference's "Freshman of the Week" four weeks in a row, and this year he has started six games, sporting a record of 4-2. The win was Franklin Pierce's fourth in its last five contests and travel to face Saint Anselm on Wednesday.

Colleen Fitzpatrick had an assist in the UMass Lowell women's soccer team's 4-0 win over American International College on Saturday. The junior from Tewksbury sent a cross into the box in the ninth minute to help set up the first goal of the game. The River Hawks improved their record to 6-2-2 overall and will face C.W. Terrific second half leads Rams Football team to a Royal win

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

GEORGETOWN - The Shawsheen Tech football team used a remarkable second half comeback on Saturday at Georgetown High School to turn what looked a certain demoralizing defeat into an absolutely thrilling victory.

Senior running back Cory Foss scored on a 10 yard touchdown run on the second play of overtime and moments later caught the two point conversion pass from senior quarterback Kevin White of Tewksbury and the Shawsheen defense held the Georgetown offense scoreless to clinch the 21-13 comeback victory and send the Rams home happy with a 1-2 record as they prepare to begin Commonwealth Athletic Conference play this Saturday morning at North Shore.

It was as difficult a first half as the Rams are ever likely to see, as Georgetown had held the Rams to 16 total yards in the first half, with Shawsheen was unable to get anything going, being held to just two first downs in the half. But in the second half, Shawsheen piled up over 150 yards of offense and held Georgetown without a first down until the final minute of regulation.

"We really challenged our team at halftime and then of course Georgetown runs back that kickoff to put us down 13-0," Shawsheen coach Al Costabile said. "That is where you really find out about your football team and a lot of young men found out that they had courage and resiliency they did not realize they had."

The Rams did not have much going for them at all in the first half. After being held to a three and out on their first possession, Georgetown took over and immediately put together an impressive scoring drive, led mostly by the running of senior quarterback Tyron Harrigan, who also capped the drive with a 10 yard touchdown run with 6:52 left in the quarter for a 7-0 lead after the extra point.

The Shawsheen offense continued to be stuck in neutral for much of the first half, as it seemed that every positive play was followed up by either a penalty or a play for negative yardage. In reality they were fortunate to go to the half only down 7-0, and they had their defense to thank for it, as twice the Rams stuffed the Royals on fourth and short situations to stop drives.

When Georgetown's Derek DePasquale raced down the sideline for a 73 yard kickoff return to start the second half, it did not look like things would get much better, but when given their chance, the Shawsheen offense took full advantage on their first possession of the half, going on a 13 play, 71 yard drive led by the running of senior running backs Foss and Ryan Hunt, and capped with a beautiful five yard fade to the corner of the end zone from White to senior tight end Andrew Companeschi of Wilmington on a fourth and goal play.

Costabile was very impressed with the way White bounced back to play a great second half.

"It was a very very courageous effort in the second half,' Costabile said. "He and the rest of the team picked themselves up off the canvas and played a great second half."

The Rams missed the extra point and were down 13-6 with 4:45 left in the third quarter.

The teams played evenly for the next several minutes until the Rams got the break they needed when White recovered a fumble to give them the ball at their own 47 yard line halfway through the fourth quarter.

It was all Foss all the time on the ensuing drive with the senior, who rushed for 62 of his 82 yards on the game in the second half touching the ball on every play for the Rams.

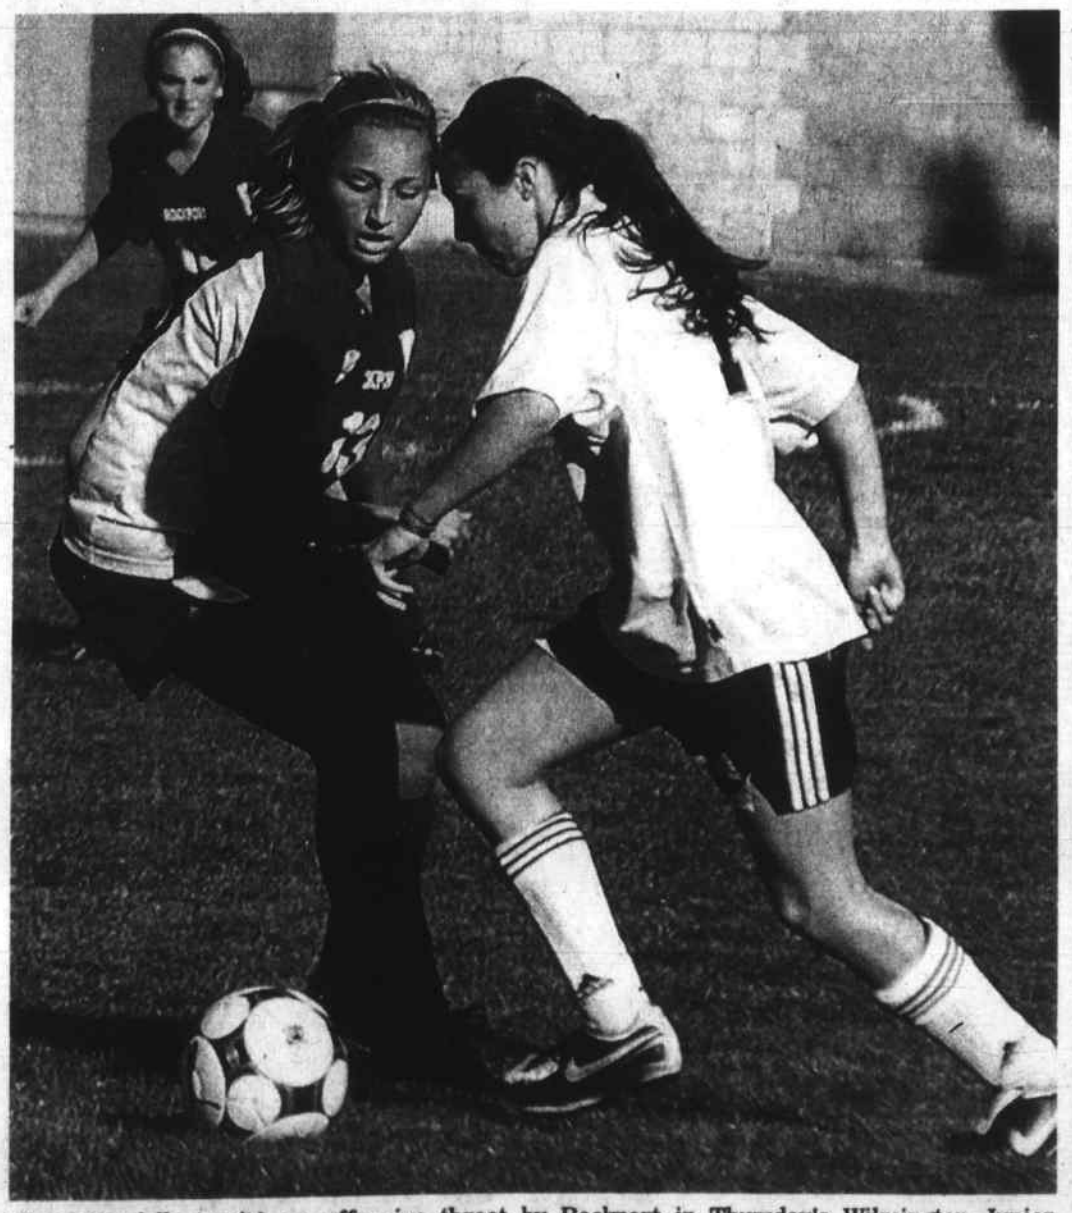

The drive actually nearly stalled for the Rams when they were called for a personal foul penalty midway through the drive, but on the very next play Georgetown was called for a blatant pass interference penalty to give the Rams the ball at the Royal 36 yard line.

Three plays after the penalty, the Rams capped their 10 play scoring drive when White connected with Foss on a perfectly executed screen pass for a 15 yard touchdown with 1:42 left in the game. This time senior kicker Nick Danas connected on the extra point for the 13-13 tie.

In overtime, it was once again Foss doing the bulk of the work, as after an incomplete pass he took a handoff from White and out ran all Royal defenders to the corner of the end zone for a 19-13 lead and then caught White's pass for the two point conversion.

Georgetown still had one more chance, but a sack by Derek Bent on second down pinned Georgetown back at the16 yard line, and then after a 12 yard gain on second down, junior defensive back Bob Greenwood of Tewksbury dropped Harrigan for a one yard loss on fourth down to seal the game.

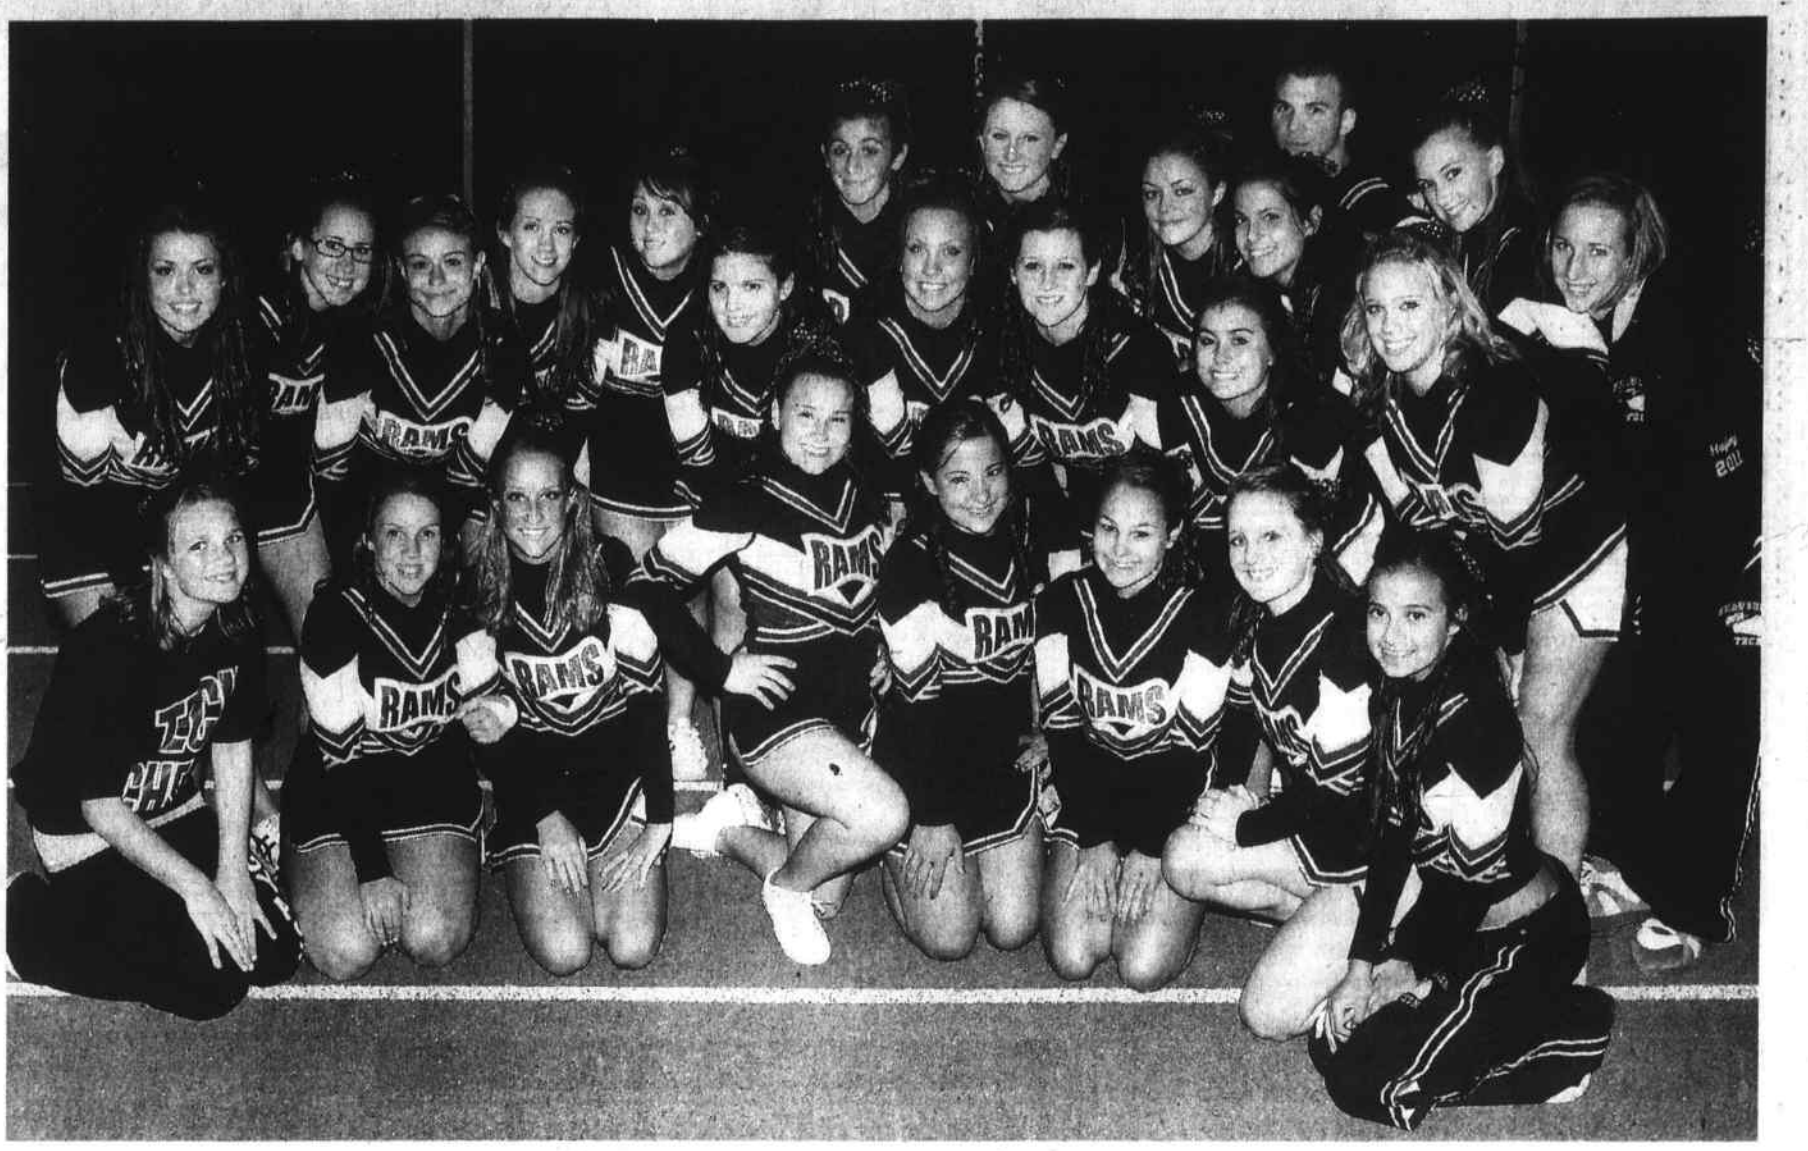

This Saturday at 10:30 a.m., the Rams will travel to Middleton for a CAC crossover battle against CAC Lower Division rival North Shore. North Shore will bring a 3-0 record into the game, and have been led offensively by senior quarterback David St. Pierre, who has already thrown seven touchdown passes on the young season, including three for over 45 yards.

The Shawsheen Tech girls soccer team had already shown this season that they are a dominant force in the Commonwealth Athletic Conference, but on Tuesday afternoon on their home field they may have made their biggest statement of the season to this point with a 2-0 non-league win over Billerica High School of the MVC.

The win improved the lady Rams record on the season to 7-0 overall and while heir 6-0 mark in the CAC is probably still the most important past of their record, Shawsheen coach Doug Michaud knows that this win was still a huge one for his squad.

"It's a huge win, with them being a Division 1 team and us being in Division 3," Michaud said. "And Billerica played very well, it was a well played match by both teams. We had some great passing throughout the game and that really helped us get the win."

Shawsheen took a 1-0 lead midway through the first half on a penalty kick when Marissa Irwin made a great move around the Billerica defender, forcing her opponent to grab her by the shirt and pull her down.

Kim Barriss took the penalty shot and left no doubt, slamming the ball home for a 1-0 lead.

"Kim is just so calm, cool and collected," Michaud said. "Nothing phases her and she came through for us there in a big spot."

Senior forward Jenn Carroll of Wilmington continued her great season with her 6th goal and 12 point of the year with a goal with about five minutes to go.

"That was pretty much the end of it when Jenn scored that goal," Michaud said. "Jenn is continuing to play very well and she is on pace to put up some big numbers for us."

Sophomore goalie Jen Curtis made nine saves to earn the victory, out dueling her sister, senior Nicole Curtis in the Billerica net.

"Jen shut down a lot of plays before they actually happened," Michaud said. "She would come out and shut them down before they could get off a good shot."

Sophomore Amanda Vance also had a sister, Stephanie Vance playing for Billerica. Amanda is one of several young players for Shawsheen who has been stepping up lately, including a two goal performance in a 7-0 win over PMA Methuen on Monday.

"Amanda is kind of a quite player, but she is very solid and very aggressive," Michaud said. "She makes smart plays. She got off to a bit of a slow start this year, but she has really started to pick up the pace and is doing a very good job."

Along with the Billerica win, the other very impressive win for the Lady Rams this past week was last Thursday in a 6-0 victory over arch rival Greater Lowell. The two tams have consistently battled for the top spot in the CAC, so Michaud was surprised by the wide margin of victory.

"I was shocked, actually," Michaud said. "Whenever we have played them since I have been here neither team has won by more than two goals so that was a huge win for us."

Janel Madore of Tewksbury along with Charlotte Ardini each had a goal and two assists in the victory, while Carroll had two goals.

Things obviously could not be going any better for Shawsheen at the moment with perfect record and having out scored their opponents by a combined 37-2 with five shutouts on the season, the Lady Rams have the look of a champion, although the season is not even half over.

"I knew coming in that we would have a strong team based on all the players we had coming back," Michaud said. "But to blow out Greater Lowell the way we did and then to beat Billerica, tells me we may be better than I thought."

Boys Soccer

The Shawsheen boys soccer team picked up a pair of big wins this week over non-league rivals, part of a 2-0-1 week that improved their overall record to 4-2-1 on the season and put them in position to battle for a tournament berth as the second half of the season approaches.

The Rams began their week with a hard fought 0-0 tie at home with CAC rival North Shore, and wrapped up with a pair of road wins, first a 2-0 triumph over Blue Hills in Canton last Friday and then a 3-2 victory over Amesbury on Monday.

Shawsheen coach Dick Barriss knew going into the week how important the non-league games would be and he was very pleased to see his team come away with victories.

"They both could have been season breakers honestly," Barriss said. "If you look at our schedule this week it is very tough with Northeast and Blackstone on it. Not that I don't think we can win those games as well, but it is much nicer going in having won these two instead of having lost them."

Against Blue Hills on Tuesday, senior midfielder Mike O'Connell led the way, scoring what proved to be the winning goal in the 28th minute of the first half, with sophomore Mike DiGiorgio picking up the assist..

O'Connell would also pot a goal and an assist in the Amesbury win, and has been making the most of his chances on offense since moving to the halfback postion.

"Mike had wanted to play goalie for us earlier in the year, but I felt we were better with him on defense and playing out," Barriss said. "So he asked if he could move up from defense and have an opportunity to score some goals and he has done very well."

Junior halfback Dan Serrano scored at the 15 minute mark of the second half for an insurance goal for the Rams, with senior forward Jeff Jaimes picking up the assist, and senior goalie Alex Perez made eight saves for the shutout victory.

"Alex has been playing well," Barriss said. "He got a shutout here and the two goals he let up against Amesbury were no his fault, they were actually mistakes at midfield, the first one was a player's mistake and the second one was a bad coaching decision."

The Rams also got solid defensive play from sophomore fullbacks Alex Terk and Nicco Riparo, senior fullback Mark Sarro. The steady play of these three has made the Rams a very formidable defensive team.

"They have been pretty steady back there," Barriss said. "With the exception of the Chelsea and Lynn Tech games early in the year, we have not given up more than two goals in a game."

In the 3-2 win over Amesbury, O'Connell had a goal and an assist while DiGiorgio and Mike Terk scored the other goals. Perez made 11 saves to pick up the win.

The Rams also played very well in their scoreless tie with North Shore, a game that Barriss felt could have gone in the win column based on territorial play.

"Everybody from the coach to parents to the players saw our dominance," Barriss said. "We just did not score. We had 22 shots that the goalie made saves on and another 23 that we shot and missed the net. We hit crossbars and posts, but we just could not get it in."

Golf

The Shawsheen golf team just continues to pile up victories in league play, and they are closing in on not only a league title, but a possible undefeated record in their first year in the Colonial Athletic League.

Three more league wins this week, over Monty Tech, Minuteman and Assabet valley, sandwiched around a non-league loss to Rockport improved the Rams to 7-3 overall on the season and 7-0 within the CAL. With just four league matches remaining, the Rams look to be in good position to win their fifth league title in a row, with the first four coming as part of the Commonwealth Athletic Conference.

"We seem to do very well in our league matches, and I don't know if that is because we are more confident or what, but we always seem to play great golf in those matches," Shawsheen coach Tom Struthers said.

The Rams began their week which what was supposed to be their toughest test of the season, traveling to Gardner Country Club to take on league favorite Monty Tech on Wednesday. Shawsheen passed the test with flying colors, coming away with a 168-174 victory that featured a 38 for senior captain Brett Fredricskon who was the overall medalist.

"Monty Tech is a good team," Struthers said. "They are I think 7-1-1 overall now, so it was a big win for us. We still have to face them again, but it will be back on our home course, so hopefully we will have the advantage."

The Rams took to the road again on Thursday to take on former CAC rival Minuteman at Pine Meadows Golf Course in Lexington and once again came up with a fine effort, winning by a score of 155-177 with Fredrickson shooting an even par 35 to take medalist honors, while sophomore Chris Clayton shot a 37.

Corey Gendreau shot a 40 while Nick Sbraccia shot a 43 to aid in the victory.

After the loss to Rockport on Friday the Rams traveled to Berlin Country Club to take on Assabet Valley and got some of their more outstanding efforts of the season, in a 151-178 victory with junior Chris Deacetis leading the way, shooting a one under par 34.

"Chris was so happy and I was so happy for him," Struthers said. "He's a kid who played golf all summer and worked hard to get better and when he came out for tryouts he did so well. He had started to go back to some bad habits for a while, but he has corrected them and he came out and shot the round of his life."

Sophomore Spencer Sawicki shot a 38 for the Rams, solidifying his spot in the starting lineup.

"All the kids want to play. They are all friends, but they are competing for those last spots," Struthers said. "Spencer had been getting a little down on himself, but he took a couple of days off out of the lineup and came back very strong. He's a very good golfer."

The Rams will take on Northeast in another road match on Wednesday before finally returning home to Patriot Golf Course in Bedford on Thursday to take on Nashoba Tech.

Family of NY wine pioneer puts vineyard for sale

AQUEBOGUE, N.Y. (AP) — The family of a deceased Long Island wine pioneer says his vineyards are for sale.

Robert Palmer died in January. His family had hoped that Palmer Vineyards would be able to continue after his death and even expand. But his daughter, Kathy Le Morzellec, says it would take too much money.

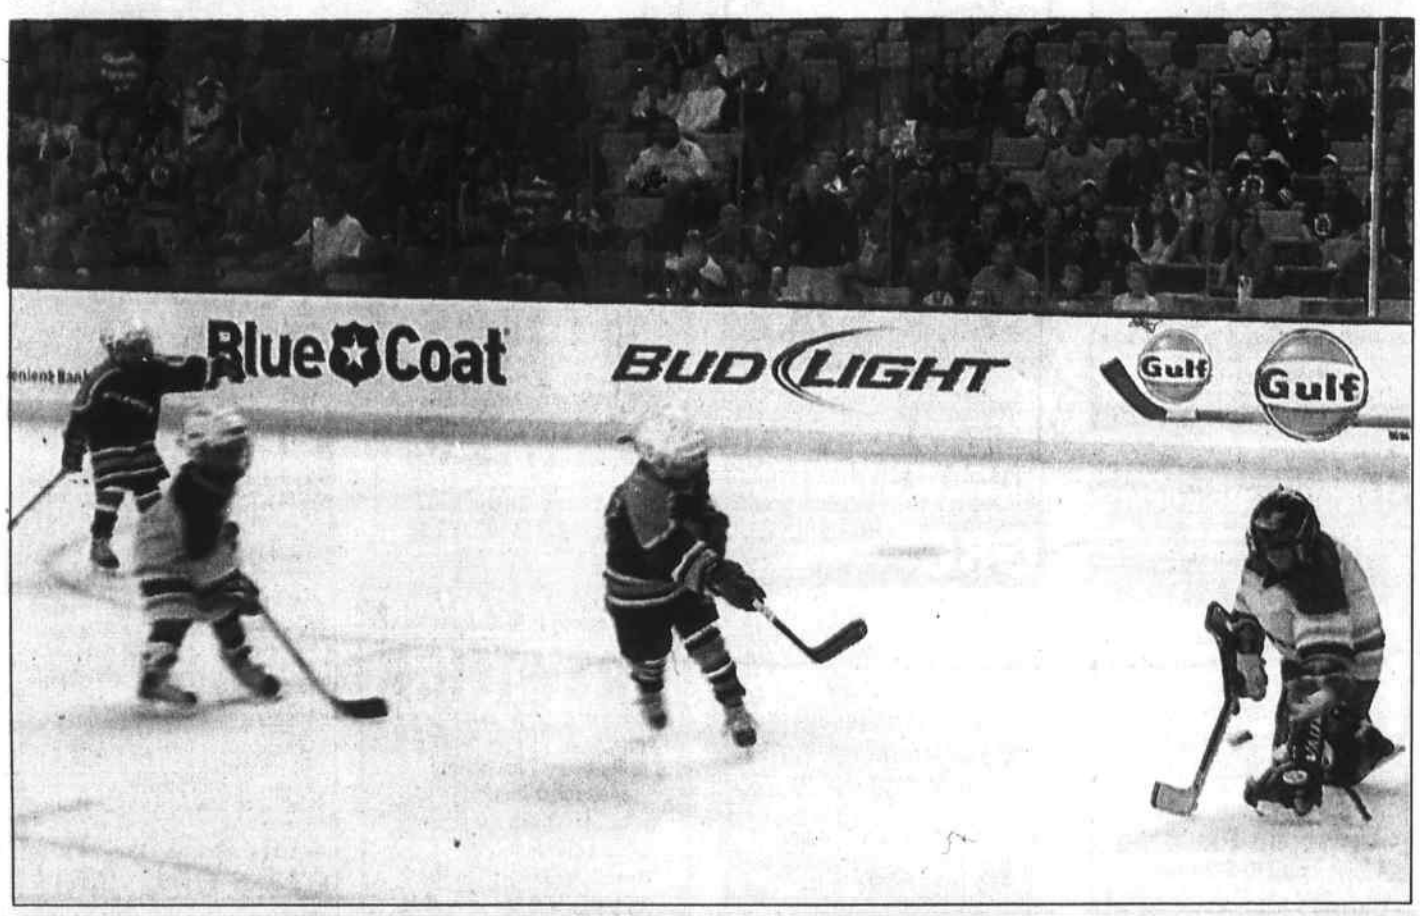

One property is a winery in Aquebogue, with winemaking facilities, a tasting room and a restored 18th-century farmhouse. It's on sale for $6.9 million. A separate vineyard in Cutchogue is on sale for $3.9 million.

Palmer started the winery in 1983. He was among the first people to put money into wine making on Long Island. His winery was also among the first to export Long Island wine overseas.

Three Minutes of Fame for Wildcat hockey team

The Three Minutes of Fame is a Youth Hockey program that includes a scrimmage of Mite and/or Squirt players during an intermission of a Boston Bruins game. Saturday night, immediately following the first period of the game between the Bruins and the Columbus Blue Jackets, Wilmington's Mite 2 team took to the Garden ice for the thrill of a lifetime.

The Blue Team's hasty offense of Kyle Collins, Cameron Banks and Dylan Wargo showed great agility and had a number of quality shots on net. But, their scoring opportunities were no match for the outstanding goaltending by Chris Bernazani and the hustling defense of the White Team's Felicia Zuccola and Brendan Ardito.

At the other end, the White Team's persistent offense of J.J. Thibert, Dean Nally and Justin Crowley fought tenaciously to get their scoring chances. But, their efforts were denied by the stand-up goaltending of Will Lawson and the determined defense of Sam Cedrone and Matthew Ardito for the Blue Team.

The scrimmage ended in a 0-0 tie, but nothing could match the excitement felt by the numerous family and friends, who were in the stands cheering the teams on.

The kids had a great time and many thanks go out to the Boston Bruins staff for their hospitality during the event.

down runs for the game. This was all possible because of the gaping holes and great blocking by Matt Thomas, Tyler Thomas, Nick Kullman, Kyle Kenyon, David Fraser, Mark Companeschi, Connor Rooney, Alex Boehm, Cameron Gilbert, and Zack Kincaid.

Starting the second half, Wilmington lined up to receive. The Wildcats continually moved the ball up the field only turning the ball over to Waltham's offense 2 times on downs. Waltham was not able to capitalize on these opportunities because of the hard hitting and tackling from the defensive. They were Cameron Martin, Zack Kincaid, Cameron Gilbert, Nick Kullman, Kyle Kenyon, Andrew Sullivan, Christian Robarge, Mark Companeschi, Bailey Smith, Tyler and Matt Thomas, David Fraser and Alex Boehm.

Wilmington offense takes over. They get the ball to around the 5 yard line when Bailey Smith picks up several yards and was able to run one in for a touchdown and Christian Robarge ran up the middle for the extra point. Again, kicker Connor Rooney did a terrific job.

Waltham's offense tried one last time to move the ball up the field but was unsuccessful. Wilmington took possession of the ball for the last time. Andrew Sullivan, Cameron Gilbert, Mark Companeschi and Kyle Kenyon all had some great runs to end the game. E1 showed some awesome teamwork and truly got the job done.

The E1 Team would like to thank their coaches, parents, family and friends, along with the E1 Cheerleaders for their support especially on such a rainy morning.

Residents fear for safety on Pond Street near Horn Pond

By RYAN LAROCHE

WINCHESTER - A warning from Winchester residents to all who plan on using Pond Street to enter or exit Woburn: slow down. Residents of Pond Street (and adjacent streets such as Chesterford Road and Norfolk Road) expressed concern for their safety at a recent Board of Selectmen's meeting in Winchester.

According to several residents who attended the meeting, speeding has been a problem, as people tend to shoot up from Cambridge Street/Route 3 or down Pond Street from Lake Avenue or the Woburn Parkway (Pond Street is the only access to Horn Pond from Winchester).

Why now has the problem seemed to surface? The town will be installing new granite curbs and new sidewalks along Pond Street. One idea suggested by the Traffic Advisory Committee (TAC) and favored by residents, called for adding a crosswalk at the Woburn Parkway access to Horn Pond, would require an ADA approved handicapped ramp. Should the town go forward with the curbing and sidewalks before approving a crosswalk, it would have to be removed for the ramp.

Another idea proposed by the TAC and favored by residents: a three-way stop sign at Chesterford Road and Pond Street and one at Woodside Road and Pond Street. Doug Prentiss, a Traffic Engineer hired by the town, told the board that stop signs should not be used as traffic calming measures (something the Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Devices specifically states). If one is installed improperly, the town could be liable should an accident occur.

Prentiss, of Fay, Spofford & Thorndike, recommended shrinking the lanes to slow down drivers. In his opinion, the tighter the lanes, the slower people drive. He thought widening the shoulder could accomplish this feat. Selectman Thomas Howley suggested adding in a bike path to go along with Prentiss' idea.

Pond Street, in the area of Cambridge Street, is 29-35 feet wide. It remains that length at Chesterford Road, but shrinks to 27 feet at Woodside Road. Just past Woodside is Brantwood Road and the Lynch Elementary School. Prentiss brought up how the signs alerting passers-by to the school are obscure and even suggested adding in radar which would monitor drivers' speed.

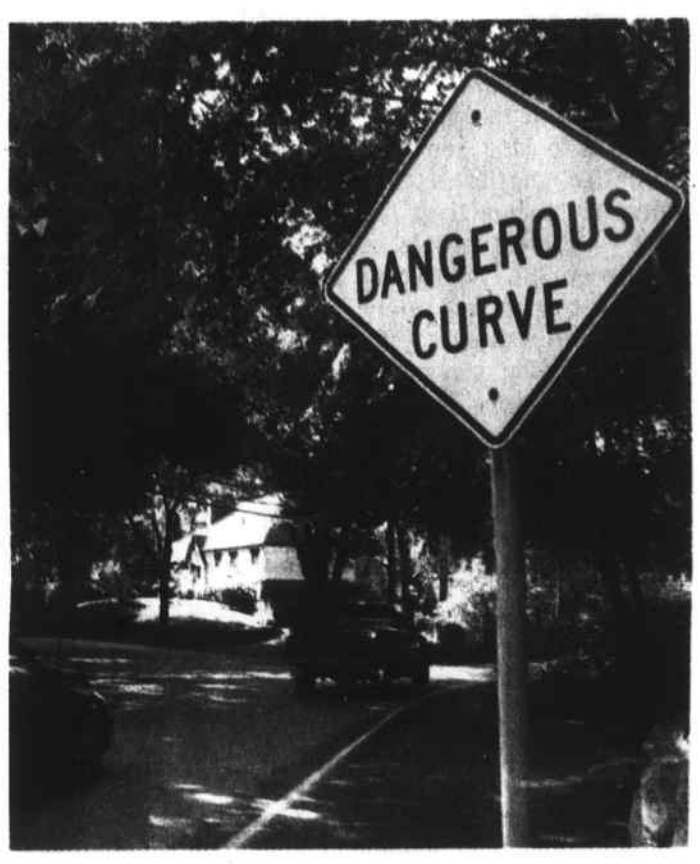

Unfortunately, when a speed study was conducted recently, a police speed-recording trailer was in the area, so the data, which showed the average speed to be 33.6 miles per hour (in a 30 miles per hour zone), may have been slightly skewed.

A traffic volume study was also done, which showed a greater number of vehicles pass through the area at night and on Saturdays. Speeding at night poses a threat due to potential vision problems, while on Saturdays many kids may be out walking or riding

Movie Reviews

by Paul Feely

"SURROGATES" ENTERTAINING

"SURROGATES" stars Bruce Willis and Radha Mitchell. The movie was partially filmed in Woburn, and the greater Boston area. It is an entertaining thriller that explores the world of science fiction and its pitfalls.

"SURROGATES"
GRADE: **

'Surrogates', the new Bruce Willis movie that was partially filmed in Woburn and various locations around Boston, is an entertaining thriller that explores the world of science fiction while warning of the pitfalls of falling too deep in love with technology.

In the film, two FBI agents (played by Willis and Radha Mitchell) investigate the mysterious murder of a college student linked to the man who helped create a high-tech surrogate phenomenon that allows people to purchase unflawed robotic versions of themselves - fit, good looking remotely controlled machines that ultimately assume their life roles - enabling people to experience life vicariously from the comfort and safety of their own homes.

The murder spawns a quest for answers, because in a world of characters and costumes, who's real and who can you trust?

The film paints a pretty future, at least on the facade, vfull of stylistic colors and shapes, but humans are caged in their own homes (of their own volition), experiencing life through robots (the surrogates of the title).

The film has a lot of fun with Willis' character - he looks very waxy at the start, but this is just his surrogate. The real Willis emerges later, bald and grizzled, prompting one character to utter the line, "you look terrible". As is the style in a Willis action movie, he looks even more battered and bruised by film's end after causing the customary mayhem.

Even though the plot is wrapped up a little too neatly in the end, the film contains enough stylish visuals and energy to guarantee it's never dull.

"THE INFORMANT"

GRADE: ***

Matt Damon excels as 'The Informant!', the title character in director Steven Soderbergh's newest film.

Soderbergh's film may bill itself as a comedy, but it's really a character study, and what a character Damon plays.

Based on a non-fiction book, Damon stars as Mark Whitacre, an overweight, hairpatch-wearing top-level executive for Archer Daniels Midland in the early 1990s, right before the proverbial dung hit the fan blades. He becomes aware of and becomes a key part in international price-fixing for the nutrietnt lysine, then becomes an informant for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

This is where Damon is at his best. Whitacre is full of himself (he calls himself Agent 0014, because he fancies himself twice as smart as 007), balancing his dual positions in life, attending meetings and playing the family man, all the while lying to everyone around him.

He is delusional, which becomes apparent to the audience through incessant voice-over narrations where he rambles on and on. It also becomes apparent to the FBI agents he is working with, specifically Scott Bakula, thanks to his ridiculous actions.

Soderbergh gives the film a washed-out look, which helps to give it a 1970s feel, which jives well with the Marvin Hamlisch soundtrack and hairstyles and fashion ensembles that populate the piece - but doesn't jive with the timeline of the story which takes place during the 1990s.

Look for good cameos from comedians such as Patton Oswalt, as wel as appearances by Tom and Dick Smothers.

That's right - Matt Damon, in a film with he Smothers Brothers, in 2009. Isn't that worth the price of a ticket right there?

"WHITEOUT"
GRADE: *

Though 'Whiteout' is the name of this film, it's also what should have been used on the script - actually, the whole thing probably should have been scrapped from the start.

Kate Beckinsale plays U.S. Marshal Carrie Stetko, a character we are introduced to when, 10 minutes into the film, she strides onscreen, promptly undresses, and takes a shower with strategically-placed clouds of steam on the see-through doors - the kind of thing you see in direct-to-video flicks, or poorly-made Hollywood films that open during the September doldrums.

Director Dominic Sena ("Swordfish," "Gone in 60 Seconds") does nothing withthe screenplay, which is based on a good graphic novel.

The movie opens with a fake-looking CGI stunt where a Russian cargo plane crashes on Antarctica in the 1940s.

Naturally there's a mysterious locked box aboard with something inside that must be kept a secret at all costs, even if folks have to die because of it.

Jump ahead to present day, when the US base there is a hive of activity as everyone gets ready to exit for the winter before a "big storm" arrives.

The discovery of a dead body in a remote region threatens to upend Stetko's vacation plans and triggers flashbacks of an assignment gone wrong in Miami.

Beckinsale teams up with a pilot and eventually heads to a Russian base where she finds a geologist dying on a sofa from a slashed throat - and an a ice-pick-wielding killer staying just out of sight.

Everything is explained to the audience in such a manner that a five-year-old could follow along, which makes sense considering the paint-by-numbers approach taken to the so-called surprise ending - a twist that most moviegoers will see coming long before it plays out on screen, and the houselights mercifully come up.

"EXTRACT"
GRADE: ***

Mike Judge's latest is a workplace comedy about the owner of a cooking-extract factory and the comedy of errors that his life becomes - but fans of 'Office

STONEHAM: TOWARD 2023

"With town officials predicting another nightmarish budget crisis in FY'11, Stoneham's Retirement Board voted ... to extend its pension funding schedule out three years to 2023," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"Though the vote was symbolically made unanimous, at least three Retirement Board members struggled with the decision, which will ultimately cost taxpayers $5 million in order to save Stoneham about $650,000 next year.

"'I understand there's an economic crisis, but we can't compound it,' said Retirement Board Chair... Janice Houghton, whose sentiments were shared by members Elsie Wallace and Jim McDermott.

"'I understand you get [the payment] down and everybody says, 'whipee,' but it creates a problem down the road," Houghton added.

"While those critics approached the schedule extension skeptically, both Retirement Board members Town Accountant Ron Florino and former Selectman Cosmo Ciccarello argued that sticking with the 2020 payoff date would lead to catastrophic layoffs and service reductions.

"According to budget forecasts prepared by town officials, Stoneham will likely face a budget deficit of at least $1.3 million next year....

"'Tying it back into local aid, I think that works for the town and the taxpayer,' said Town Administrator David Ragucci."

BURLINGTON: WHO KNEW?

"Michelle Romano, known for her featured role as Tony Soprano's niece in the HBO series 'The Sopranos,' is a Burlington resident hoping to fulfill her dreams of becoming a successful actress here in Boston, with the rise of the Plymouth Hollywood East Studios," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Romano, a Burlington native, attended Arlington Catholic High School where she discovered her love for the Theater and performed her first play at The Regent Theater.

"During this time, Michelle competed in several local Pageants where she won the title of Miss Teen Boston and Miss Boston US of America.

"She continued to excel and won numerous 'Talent' awards for her acting abilities.... Michelle has been working in both Massachusetts and New York City on independent films, feature films, commercials, and in print.

"Some of her local work includes a 99 Restaurant spec, The Butchery in Danvers commercial, several music videos including 'Hollywood Nights' performed by a local Boston band, Common Thrill, and featured roles in other Boston based productions....

FROM NORTH READING TO MARS

"Patience and precision are the traits of an expert marksman and 79-year-old Bernie Friesecke of North Reading possesses and abundance of both," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"These traits have served him well in both his professional vocation as an aeronautical engineer and his avocation as a rifle shooter at state, regional, national and international competitions spanning more than 60 years... patience and precision seem to be part of Friesecke's DNA.

"It is the rule of thumb he applies to all the special interests in his life which include enjoying world travel and photography with his lifetime partner, Nancy Talbot, piloting small airplanes, participating in the Civil Air Patrol with the Beverly Squadron, writing articles for specialized publications such as 'Precision Shooting' or 'Accurate Rifle' or starting his own engineering firm post-retirement that specializes in accident reconstruction and firearms invetigations...

-"Among the feathers in Friesecke's aeronautical engineering cap are his work with NASA's Apollo 15, 16 and 17 manned moon missions in the early 1970s - which he said succeeded in mapping 80% of the moon's surface, followed by the Mars Viking Lander 1 and Viking Lander 2 projects - which were the first spacecraft to operate on the surface of Mars.

"Launched in 1975, a few days apart, and landing 350 days later, in 1976, the Viking Landers marked the use of the first-ever digital cameras, and Friesecke was part of the team which successfully designed the one megapixel cameras used to record the images - including, he said, the first sunset as viewed on Mars. The images were taken one dot at a time, row by row, until the complete image was formed.

"'The crowning glory of my engineering achievement was the Mars Viking Lander,' Friesecke believes."

MOVIES

From S-2

Space' beware: this one is not up to par with that classic.

It's set in a factory instead of a jumble of cubicles, but both "Extract" and "Office Space" are workplace comedies written and directed by Judge, both are populated almost entirely by idiots, and both are amusing diversions from real life, if nothing else.

"Extract" isn't as satirical as "Office Space," but it can boast of having a great cast that manages to rescue the movie from being lumped into the rest of the summer-time clunker comedies.

Instead of championing the minions, the hero this time is a manager (Jason Bateman), and it's the drone-like worker bees who are the target of Judge's humor.

Bateman plays the owner of an extract factory who is on the verge of selling his company for a tidy profit. Mila Kunis (That 70's Show) is there to complicate things, as the pretty factory worker who gets everything she wants.

Just before the buyout can be finalized, however, a mishap on the factory floor costs an employee a testicle. So Bateman has a tough choice - he can either settle with bus-bench lawyer Gene Simmons, or he can scuttle the buyout by going to court.

Things aren't much better for him at home, as his job demands have strained his relationship with his wife (Kristin Wiig of "Saturday Night Live").

Enter a shaggy Ben Affleck, as a friend of Bateman's who dispenses some of the worst advice imaginable (along with pills and booze) from his perch behind a local hotel bar. Naturally, Bateman takes it – the advice, the pills and the booze – and the wheels come off entirely, with help from a gigolo, a klepto and a bong the size of a canoe paddle.

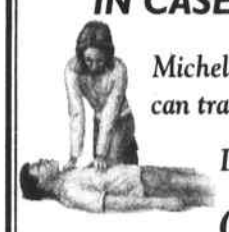

"Extract" doesn't work from beginning to end - some jokes fall and fall hard - but there is enough there to keep most movie patrons smiling and fans of Judge's past work will be satisfied as well.

"THE FINAL DESTINATION"
GRADE: **

Death is coming and Alex Browning (Devon Sawa) is blessed with the curse of knowing when, how and where the grim reaper will strike in "The Final Destination", a mediocre horror movie currently in theaters.

Alex's so-called gift reveals itself just as he embarks on a trip to Paris with his high school French class. In the plane's cabin, buckled-in and ready for take-off, Alex experiences his first powerful premonition. He sees the plane explode in a fiery blaze moments after leaving the ground. Sensing imminent doom, Alex panics and insists that everyone get off the plane. In the melee than ensues, seven people including Alex, are forced to disembark.

The film tries to recreate the mystery of such hits as "The Sixth Sense," but instead it falls into the category of poorly written, poorly acted B-movies.

"I lost 45 lbs, 4 dress sizes and 8% body fat in 4 months! I have never lost weight this fast before, the results are amazing!"

I lost 45 lbs. in 4 months! If I can do it, anyone can! I started going to Get In Shape For Women not because I was eager to join a gym, but because I needed to do something. I was 100 pounds overweight and embarrassed to be so out of shape. After watching the "Biggest Loser" on the couch it hit me. I didn't need another "eat less" diet, I needed to get outside of my comfort zone and start exercising. I was terrified because I have never been to a gym or exercised before. Regardless, I picked up the phone and made the call. That was the hardest part. As soon as you walk through the door at Get In Shape For Women you're not alone. You have the support and guidance of a personal trainer. The trainers work with you no matter what your fitness level is. They push you to do things that you never thought you could do. If you've ever seen the show "The Biggest Loser," that's how the contestants lost their weight. They exercised in a group with a personal trainer. That's what you get at Get In Shape For Women. I have never lost weight this fast before. In addition to losing 45 lbs., I've also lost over 8% body fat and dropped four pant sizes. The results are amazing! I can't recommend it enough.

MIDDLESEX EAST appearing in Daily Times – Chronicle (Reading, Woburn, Winchester, Burlington, Wakefield), Lynnfield Villager, No. Reading Transcript, Wilmington & Tewksbury Town Crier, Stoneham Independent

Athletes & Activities

by Paul Feely

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA: What is the last season during which neither Gil Santos or Gino Cappelletti were part of the Patriots' radio broadcast team?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•The Lady Lynx came out on top on Saturday in their victory over Massachusetts Maritime at Clean Harbors Stadium. The final score of the non-league college women's soccer match was 8-0, with JODI FRALICK (WOBURN, MASS./WOBURN) leading the way for the Lynx with a hat trick and an assist in the match.

The torrential down pour did not stop the lady Lynx from playing quality soccer that afternoon, with twenty-two consecutive passes before making the move up the field for the first goal of the game in the 13th minute of the match. JENNA FRALICK (WOBURN, MASS./WOBURN) tallied her first points of the season putting two goals away for the Lynx in the 28th minute and again later in the 59th minute.

Also racking points up for the Lynx were freshmen Sarah Levitt (SILVER SPRING, Md./James Hubert Blake) and Courtney Hopkins (WATERTOWN, Mass./Watertown) who both scored their first collegiate goal. A goal and an assist was also added by sophomore Bridget Rundquist (CHICAGO, Ill./St. Scholastica Academy) as well as assists by freshmen Kelsey Fitzgerald (UPTON, Mass./Nipmuc Regional) and Abigail Landmesser (STOCKTON SPRINGS, Maine/Searsport), and juniors Alyson Durben (STOW, Mass./Nashoba Regional) and Emma Fog (WELLESLEY, Mass./Wellesley).

In net for the Lynx was Miranda Matson (GIG HARBOR, Wash./Peninsula), who picked up her first victory of the season.

•The No. 5 UMass Lowell River Hawks defeated the Merrimack Warriors, 2-1, in North Andover on Tuesday afternoon, capturing their second Northeast-10 Conference game of the year.

JUNIOR FORWARD SAMMY MACY (TEWKSBURY, MA) netted both River Hawk goals, one in each half, to secure UMass Lowell's victory. With the win, they improve to 9-1 on the year with a 2-0 mark in Northeast-10 play.

Macy's first goal came in the 20th minute of play (19:50) as she received a pass from midfielder Jaime Hadley (Chelmsford, MA), then turned and fired on net for her tenth goal of the season.

Merrimack quickly retaliated, though, as Jaclyn Germano (Westwood, MA) scored her eighth goal of the year in the 23rd minute of play (22:25). The teams stayed knotted at one apiece through the remainder of the first half.

Macy broke the tie with the only other goal of the game, in the 59th minute of play (58:21). Midfielder Molly Clay (Rockport, MA) took a shot and Macy was standing by to tip it in for the game-winner.

The River Hawks outshot their opponent 31-12 and only allowed seven shots on goal in the contest. They also owned an 11-3 advantage in penalty corners.

•Need some help with this week's question? It was in the era of Big Hair.

•Senior Haley Catarius (Marshfield, MA) placed 22nd individually to lead the UMass Lowell women's cross country team to eighth place at the UMass Dartmouth Shriners Invitational Saturday afternoon.

The River Hawks compiled 212 points (22, 36, 41, 47, 66 - 76, 97) as MIT won the team title with 60 points, ahead of Brandeis (75) and Keene State (115).

Catarius ran the 5K course in 19 minutes, 2.0 seconds while JUNIOR SARAH BONOMO (TEWKSBURY, MA) placed 36th in 19:17 and freshman Kelly Walton (Nahant, MA) 41st in 19:20.

Freshmen Gina Butler (Dracut, MA) and sophomore Jen Nicoloro (Waltham, MA) rounded out UMass Lowell's top five, Butler 47th in 19:25 and Nicoloro 66th in 19:53.

Freshman Mary Hazen (Framingham, MA) took 77th in 20:05 and freshman MaryAnn Ford (Arlington, MA) 98th in 20:26.

Jacqui Wentz of MIT won the individual title in 17:40. The field included 301 runners representing 42 colleges and universities.

In the women's sub-varsity race, three River Hawks placed in the top 20, led by freshman Katelynn Allen (Marshfield, MA), who took seventh in 19:42. Sophomore Ivory Farren (Chemsford, MA) placed 14th in 20:15 and sophomore Jennifer Carr (Tewksbury, MA) 20th in 20:30.

•Senior forward Claire Hourihan (East Amherst, N.Y./Williamsville North) scored both goals to lead Stonehill College, ranked sixth in this week's Kookaburra/National Field Hockey Coaches Association (NFHCA) Division II poll, to a 2-1 victory over 8th-ranked Bentley University in a key Northeast-10 Conference field hockey matchup at W.B. Mason Stadium tonight.

Hourihan scored a goal in each half, netting the deciding goal 12:30 into the second half after a sustained period of pressure by the Stonehill attack. JUNIOR MIDFIELDER COURTNEY FOLEY (WAKEFIELD, MASS./WAKEFIELD MEMORIAL) fired a cross into the center of the arc from the right side that Bentley senior goalkeeper Alyssa Sliney (Brewster, Mass./Nauset Regional) tried to clear, but lost the ball in her pads. The ball squirted behind Sliney and Hourihan pounced and knocked the loose ball into the cage and send Stonehill on its way to its eighth-straight win.

•ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The year was 1987, when the Patriots were on WHDH 850-AM, with Curt Gowdy and Jon Morris calling the games.

their bicycles.

Besides shrinking the driving lanes, Prentiss had other ideas on how to calm traffic on Pond Street and surrounding areas:

- Traffic circles
* Round-a-bouts
* Chicanes
* Diverters
* Speed tables or speed bumps
* Chokers or neck-downs
* Street closures
- Changing street direction
- Center islands
- Raised crosswalks

One idea raised by Selectman Jim Johnson concerned installing an island in the area of Pond Street and Chesterford Road. Prentiss said it would be feasible and it would slow down traffic, but reiterated his top choice was shrinking the lanes, noting it was not only the simplest idea, but also the cheapest.

Residents in attendance had ideas of their own. Rob Levine, of 84 Pond Street, asked if the town could lower the speed limit and enforce it. Jonathan Lang, of 91 Pond Street, wondered if flashing pedestrian lights would work. In his opinion, "10,000 vehicles drive on Pond Street per day. More than just a crosswalk is needed."

In an ironic twist, it was brought up that in the area of Pond Street and Cambridge Street, where a stop sign is located, four-to-eight accidents take place per year, whereas there have been no recorded accidents in the area of Pond Street at Chesterford Road.

Most residents brought up that in certain areas of Pond Street, joggers and bikers were risking their lives. And with the Lynch Elementary School in the area, it is very dangerous for kids.

The selectmen all favored doing something to calm traffic, but were unsure what the best method was. Selectman Roger Berman, a resident of Pond Street, after mentioning how he has lost a side mirror due to parking on the street, asked for another speed study to be done, since he believed the last one was influenced by the police trailer. He also wanted to accelerate a joint meeting with the School Committee.

The board eventually came to a unanimous decision and voted to implement the traffic calming measures as outlined by Doug Prentiss in a memo he sent to the Town Engineer Bob Conway. Those are:

- Removing the Chesterford Road sign on top of the stop sign and placing it on its own post.
- At Chesterford Road, replacing the stop sign with a standard MassHighway post.
- Enhancing intersection sight lines at Chesterford Road at Pond Street.
- Cutting back the embankment within the right-of-way opposite Chesterford Road.
- Installing a crosswalk across Pond Street, just east of Chesterford Road connecting from the soon to be reconstructed sidewalk leading to the Woburn Parkway/Woburn Reservoir Drive site drive.
- Erecting signs on the Woburn Parkway site drive and on Chesterford Road that say "Bikers Dismount and Walk Bikes Across Street." To discourage motorists using this site drive, erect a sign on the Parkway site drive, facing Pond Street that reads, "No Motorized Vehicles."
- Installing signs that read "20 mph when Flashing - School Zone."

The board also voted to have Prentiss identify other traffic calming measures.

Chairman Brian O'Connor stated the board would hold another public session in a couple of months.

This week's Sampler: Elkton

Elkton enhances relaxing family retreats
